PREFACE

In the Imperial Economic Conference held in Ottawa in July-August, 1932, the past year witnessed what may well prove to be the most important historic event since Confederation.

It will be recalled that when the Imperial Conference of 1930, held in London, was adjourned, it was proposed that an Imperial Economic Conference would take place in 1931, but this was found impossible owing to certain Dominions not being able to send delegates. In 1932, the Government of Canada extended invitations to an Imperial Economic Conference to be held in Ottawa in the Summer of 1932; these invitations were duly accepted and the delegates assembled for the opening Session on July 21, 1932. The only precedent for holding such a Conference outside of London was perhaps the Second Colonial Conference held also at Ottawa in 1894.

The Imperial Economic Conference was in its inception and outcome so intimately related to the Parliament and Government of Canada that the Editor has thought it proper to include in the present issue of the Parliamentary Guide a section dealing with the major acts of the Conference. Lack of space has not permitted the proceedings to be printed in full but a fairly good resumé will be found in this volume.

The Dominion has been unfortunate during the past year in the loss by death of several of its Parliamentarians, including eight members of the Senate and two of the House of Commons, and several members of the different Legislatures.

Continuing on lines followed in previous editions, all the sections of this publication have been revised and brought up-to-date to include all appointments to the Senate during the year, as also all newly elected Members of the House of Commons and of the various Legislatures, as well as several appointments of higher officials of the Dominion Government. All biographical sketches have been revised, and the Editor desires to extend his thanks to all Parliamentarians and others who have been kind enough to supply the information required to make this volume as complete as possible for reference purposes.

The Editor would draw attention to the importance of readers consulting the lines placed at the head of each section of this volume and which indicate the dates at which the revision of the chapter or section of the reading matter immediately following was completed. The revision of every page or even every section of a book of reference like the Canadian Parliamentary Guide cannot be completed on the same day, and the compilation being based on official data received from all parts of the Dominion, there will be a slight variation in the dates of the final revision of the various sections; an appendix contains the latest changes up to time of going to press.

The Editor again desires to express his grateful acknowledgment of the invaluable assistance received in the compilation of matter for this volume from the various Federal and Provincial officials throughout the Dominion to whom application has been made for assistance in preparing the manuscript for this volume.

In December, 1910, a second badge was granted to the then Prince of Wales with a view to making some special allusion to the Principality of Wales, in the armorial achievements of the Heir-Apparent, if Prince of Wales, and consists of the red dragon of Wales differenced with a label of three points. The feathers in the older plume badge have since 1876 been officially depicted and borne perfectly erect, and not as formerly borne, and sometimes, at the present day, but wrongly, represented.

PARLIAMENT OF THE UNITED KINGDOM.

The King, as sovereign, exercises all powers of executive government through a cabinet composed of certain sworn privy councillors, who act as advisers of the Crown, and conduct the public administration in accordance with law and constitutional usage. The Crown is hereditary, but subject to such limitations as may be imposed by Parliament—i.e., by the Crown, the Lords and the Commons.

The Cabinet, or Committee of Ministers, in whom the executive government of Great Britain and Ireland is practically, though not nominally, vested, is selected with the approval of the Crown, by a Premier or First Minister, who is the choice of the Crown, the existence of the Cabinet, the members of which belong to His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, being dependent upon the possession of the confidence of a majority in the House of Commons, the popular branch of Parliament.

The Parliament of the United Kingdom is composed of the Crown, the Lords, and the Commons, this division into three branches dating from the middle of the fourteenth century. The House of Lords, the Magnum Concilium of ancient days, consists of archbishops, bishops and peers, the latter divided into dukes, marquesses, earls, viscounts and barons. Three princes of the Royal blood have also seats in the house. No peer can take his seat if he be under age, of unsound mind, or bankrupt. The Speaker is the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, who is a member of the Cabinet and retires with a change of government. The House of Lords has co-ordinate powers of legislation with the House of Commons, except as respects taxation or money bills. It cannot initiate or amend such bills, but it may reject them, as a whole. The maximum duration of the British Parliament is five years.

The House of Commons is the body where the chief political power rests. Since the general election held Nov. 15, 1922 it has consisted of 615 members. Up to dissolution, preceding the election in question, there had been 707 members, the absence of members from the South of Ireland on account of the creation of the Irish Free State being responsible for the decrease. The general election of 1918 presented several new features. For one thing the voting was done in one day. Then it was the first time that women voted in Britain, and the first time that there were women candidates.

August 14, 1911, the House of Commons of the United Kingdom by a vote of 241 to 128 passed a resolution appropriating £252,000 for the payment of members' salaries for the then ensuing year. This action was taken pursuant to a resolution passed August 10, providing for an annual salary of £400 for each member of the House of Commons. This was a radical departure from the principle of gratuitous public service which hitherto prevailed in the Commons of the United Kingdom.

Lady Astor, the first woman elected a member of the House of Commons of the United Kingdom, took her seat December 1, 1919.

THE UNITED KINGDOM GOVERNMENT

(Revised December 12, 1932)

The thirty-fifth Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland was dissolved on October 7, 1931, after a life extending from May 30, 1929. Nominations for the new House of Commons took place on October 16, and polling on October 27. The Labour Government, unable to agree to the scheme presented by Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and Mr. Snowden to meet a grave economic and financial crisis, resigned on August 24th. At the King's personal request, Mr. Ramsay Macdonald formed a National Government to include leaders of all parties. The result of the General Election gave the Nationalist party an unprecedented majority.

When the dissolution took place the position of the parties was: Unionists (Conservative) 263; Labour 265; Liberals 58; Independents 14; National Labour 15.

The composition of the new House of Commons, as a result of the Election, was:— Unionists (Conservatives) 471; Liberal National 35; Liberal 33; National Labour 13; National 2. Opposition:— Labour 52; Independent Liberal 4; Independent 5.

There were 61 women candidates nominated for Parliament and of this number only 15 were elected.

On December 1st, 1931, the Ministry was as follows:—

THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

The territories which now constitute the Dominion of Canada came under the British flag at various times, some by settlement and others by conquest or cession. Nova Scotia (Acadia) was discovered by the Cabots, in the service of King Henry VII, in 1497. That part of Canada now forming the Province of Quebec was discovered by Jacques Cartier, in the service of King Francis I of France, in 1534. The Colony of Halifax was founded in 1749. By the treaty of Utrecht (1713) Acadia, and the Hudson Bay Territory (Hudson Bay was discovered by Henry Hudson in 1610) were acknowledged to be British Territory. The Hudson Bay Company's charter, conferring right of government over the territory now known as the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and the North-West Territories, was granted in 1670. The old French Colony of Canada was surrendered by the capitulation of Montreal, signed September 8, 1760, and along with Prince Edward Island, and part of the present Province of New Brunswick, formally ceded to Great Britain by France under the Treaty of Paris, signed Feb. 10, 1763.

Vancouver Island was acknowledged to be British by the Oregon Boundary Treaty of 1846, and British Columbia was occupied in 1858.

As originally constituted, the Dominion of Canada was composed of the provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick. They were united under the provisions of an Act of the Imperial Parliament (30 Victoria, Chapter III) passed in 1867, and commonly cited as "The British North America Act, 1867," although its full official designation originally was:—"An Act for the Union of Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and the government thereof, and for purposes connected therewith." This Act received the Royal assent March 29th, 1867, and came into effect by virtue of Royal Proclamation July 1st, 1867. This Act expressly provides that the Constitution of the Dominion shall be "similar in principle to that of the United Kingdom" (1st clause), so that the executive authority shall be vested in the Sovereign of Great Britain and Ireland, and carried on in her name by a Governor-General and Council "to aid and advise in the government of Canada, to be styled the Queen's Privy Council for Canada." (Clauses 9, 10 and 11). Provision was made in the Act for the admission of British Columbia, Prince Edward Island, the North-West Territories, and Newfoundland into the Dominion (Clause 146). Newfoundland alone has not availed itself of such provision. In 1869 the extensive region known under the various designations of "Rupert's Land," "the Hudson Bay Territory," and "the North-West Territory," was added to the Dominion by purchase from the Hudson Bay Company. The Province of Manitoba was set apart out of a portion of it (32-33 Victoria, Chap. 3), and admitted into the Confederation July 15, 1870.

July 20, 1871, the Province of British Columbia, and July 1, 1873, the province of Prince Edward Island, respectively, entered the confederation.

June 25, 1886, the Royal assent was given to "An Act respecting the representation in the Parliament of Canada of Territories which for the time being form part of the Dominion of Canada, but are not included in any Province," commonly cited as "The British North America Act, 1886" (49-50 Victoria, Chapter XXXV).

This Act provides that the Parliament of Canada may, from time to time, make provisions for the representation in the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, or in either of them, of any Territories which, for the time being, form part of the Dominion of Canada, but are not included in any Province thereof.

The Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan were formed from the provisional districts of Alberta, Athabaska, Assiniboia and Saskatchewan (4-5 Edward VII, Chap. 3 and 42), and were admitted to the Union as Provinces on September 1st, 1905.

During the first session of the 12th Parliament a bill was passed extending the areas of Manitoba, Ontario, and Quebec northward by adding to those provinces portions of the North-West Territory.

THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA.

The present Canadian system of government, which was established under the British North America Act of 1867, is a Federal Union, the first of the kind in the British Empire. It comprises a general or central government controlling matters essential to the development, the permanency and the unity of the Dominion as a whole, and also a number of provincial governments having the control and management of certain clearly defined local matters naturally and conveniently falling within their jurisdiction. These several governments are administered in strict accordance with the principles of British parliamentary government.

The executive power of the Government of the Dominion of Canada, as also the chief command of the military and naval forces, is vested in the King, represented by the Governor-General, appointed by the Crown (the British Government) and advised by a Cabinet chosen from members of the King's Privy Council for Canada, and consisting of ministers holding departmental offices, besides, often, one or more ministers without portfolios. The Government holds office as long as it has the confidence of the popular branch of Parliament.

It is not necessary that all the members of the Cabinet be members of the Senate or the House of Commons as long as the Cabinet, as a whole, has the confidence of the popular branch of Parliament.

According to the B.N.A. Act, 1867, Sec. 55, where a Bill passed by the Houses of Parliament is presented to the Governor-General for the Queen's assent, he shall declare, according to his discretion, but subject to the provisions of the mentioned Act and to Her Majesty's instruction, either that he assents thereto in the Queen's name, or that he withholds the Queen's assent, or that he reserves the Bill for the signification of the Queen's pleasure.

ADMINISTRATOR OF THE GOVERNMENT.

Up to May 7, 1901, it was provided by Royal Letters Patent that the "powers granted His Excellency may in the case of his death, incapacity or absence, be given to the Lieutenant-Governor for the time being of Canada, or in his absence to such person as Her Majesty might, by warrant, appoint to be Administrator, or in the absence of such Lieutenant-Governor or Administrator to the Senior Military Officer for the time being in command of Her Majesty's regular Forces in the Dominion."

Upon the date mentioned a dormant commission passed under the Royal Sign Manual and Signet appointing the Chief Justice for the time being of the Supreme Court of Canada, or in the case of the death, incapacity, removal or absence from Canada of the Chief Justice, the Senior Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, to be Administrator of the Government of the Dominion in the event of the death, incapacity, removal or absence of the Governor-General.

The Royal Letters Patent of June 15, 1905, which provided for the change in the designation of His Excellency's office from that of "Governor-General in and over the Dominion of Canada," to that of "Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief in and over the Dominion of Canada," contained the same provision as to the Administrator as the dormant Commission, and that instrument, being thus rendered superfluous, was withdrawn and cancelled.

The Administrator is vested with all the powers and authorities granted to the Governor-General by letters patent or otherwise.

THE SENATE OF CANADA.

According to the British North America Act, 1867, the Senate as originally constituted was to consist of 72 members; 24 for the Province of Ontario, 24 for Quebec and 24 for the Maritime Provinces (Nova Scotia and New Brunswick). Qualifications were laid down as follows:—Must be a British subject; must be thirty years of age; must be possessed of real property, free of all incumbrances, to the value of $4,000; must be a resident of the province for which he is appointed. Senators are appointed by the Governor-General in Council and, subject to certain conditions, hold their appointments for life. A Senator may by writing resign his seat. His place becomes vacant (1) if for two consecutive sessions of Parliament he fails to attend; (2) if he becomes a subject or citizen of a foreign power; (3) if he becomes a bankrupt or defaulter (4) if he is attainted of felony or convicted of felony or crime; (5) if he ceases to be qualified in respect of property. The Governor-General in Council appoints the Speaker of the Senate, the Clerk and the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod. The debates and proceedings of the Senate are governed by Rules and Orders modelled to a considerable extent after those of the House of Lords and differing very considerably from those of the House of Commons. Thus honourable gentlemen, rising to speak, address themselves to the "Honourable Gentlemen," composing the House, and not to "Mr. Speaker," as in the House of Commons.

Each of the Senators from Quebec is appointed to represent one of 24 divisions corresponding with former electoral divisions of the old Province of Lower Canada. Senators for other provinces are not appointed for any designated divisions, but the practice of assuming distinctive territorial designations prevails. A popular practice of Senators who have formerly sat in the House of Commons is to adopt as their designations the titles of their former constituencies. Several are content to be designated as "from" the city or town in which they reside. Senators must continue to reside in the province from which they are appointed.

The first increase in the membership of the Senate took place in 1871, when Manitoba and British Columbia, upon entering the Confederation, were awarded two and three seats respectively. In 1873 Prince Edward Island, upon entering Confederation, was given four members, the representation of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick being reduced by two senators each. In 1882 Manitoba was given an additional member and in 1892 another.

In 1888 the North-West Territories were given two senators. In 1904, in virtue of the Act 3 Edward VII, Chapter 42, the representation of the North-West Territories was increased to four. Upon creation of the Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan in 1905, each was allotted 4 seats in the Senate, or eight seats between them.

The Senate as then constituted consisted of 87 members as follows:—Ontario, 24; Quebec, 24; Nova Scotia, 10; New Brunswick, 10; Prince Edward Island, 4; British Columbia, 3; Manitoba, 4; Saskatchewan, 4; Alberta, 4.

During the session of 1914 (3rd session XII Parliament) the government introduced a measure providing for the increase of representation in the Senate to 96. This measure provided that the detail of representation should be as follows:—Ontario by 24 senators; Quebec, by 24 senators; the Maritime Provinces and Prince Edward Island, by 24 senators, 10 thereof representing Nova Scotia, 10 thereof representing New Brunswick and 4 thereof representing Prince Edward Island; the western provinces by 24 senators, 6 thereof representing Manitoba, 6 thereof representing British Columbia, 6 thereof representing Saskatchewan and 6 Alberta.

This measure as amended by the Senate came into effect upon the dissolution of the 12th parliament.

The eligibility of women for appt. to the Senate of Canada was declared by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in 1929, and in Feb. 1930, for the first time in the History of Canada a woman was appointed a Member of the Senate.

In accordance with 5th Edward VII, Chapter 43, an allowance was made to each member of the Senate and House of Commons, of $20 for each day's attendance if the session did not extend beyond thirty days, and if the session extended beyond that time an allowance of $2,500 was made. For every day on which a member did not attend a sitting of his House a deduction at the rate of $15 per day was made.

During the fourth session of the 13th Parliament of Canada (1920) there was passed an Act to amend the Salaries Act and the Senate and House of Commons Act, which provided for an increase in the sessional indemnities of Senators and Members of the House of Commons from $2,500 to $4,000. In view of the increased indemnity, certain restrictive provisions were imposed in the Bill, the chief of which read as follows: "A member shall not be entitled to the sessional allowance if he does not attend a sitting of the House of which he is a member on at least three-fourths of the days upon which such House sits; but the allowance for any less number of days shall be twenty-five dollars for each day's attendance."

It was provided in this legislation that the Prime Minister need not be burdened with a portfolio and that he receive a salary of $15,000, the other ministers to receive salaries of $10,000 each.

Provision was also made for the raising of the salaries of the Speakers of the Senate and House of Commons from $4,000 to $6,000 and the salary of the Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons from $2,000 to $4,000.

Arthur Beauchesne, Clerk of the House of Commons.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS OF CANADA.

The House of Commons of Canada is elected by the people for five years, unless sooner dissolved by the Governor-General. Members require no property qualifications, but they must be of the age of 21, and British subjects, not disqualified by law. The Speaker is chosen by the House at the opening sitting of the first session of each parliament.

The members are elected by constituencies and voting is by ballot.

The number of members of the House of Commons is regulated by the following clauses of the British North America Act, 1867:—

“51. On the completion of the Census in the year One Thousand Eight Hundred and Seventy-One, and of each subsequent decennial Census, the representation of the four Provinces shall be readjusted by such authority, in such a manner, and from such time as the Parliament of Canada from time to time provides, subject and according to the following Rules:—

“(1). Quebec shall have the fixed number of Sixty-five members

“(2). There shall be assigned to each of the other Provinces such a number of members as will bear the same proportion to the number of its population (ascertained at such Census) as the number Sixty-five bears to the number of the population of Quebec (so ascertained).

“(3). In the computation of the number of members for a Province a fractional part not exceeding one-half of the whole number requisite for entitling the Province to a member shall be disregarded; but a fractional part exceeding one-half of that number shall be equivalent to the whole number.

“(4). On any such readjustment the number of members for a Province shall not be reduced unless the proportion which the number of the population of the Province bore to the number of the aggregate population of Canada at the then last preceding readjustment of the numbers of members for the Province is ascertained at the then latest Census to be diminished by one twentieth part or upwards.

"(5). Such readjustments shall not take effect until the termination of the then existing Parliament.

"52. The number of the members of the House of Commons may from time to time be increased by the Parliament of Canada, providing the proportionate representation of the Province prescribed by this Act is not thereby disturbed."

At Confederation (1867) the House of Commons consisted of 181 members of which Ontario returned 82; Quebec 65; Nova Scotia, 19; and New Brunswick, 15. During the fourth session of the 1st Parliament the representation was increased to 191, Manitoba (4 members) and British Columbia (6 members) having entered Confederation.

The representation in the 2nd Parliament (July 8, 1872, to Jan. 2, 1874), under the Redistribution Act of 1872, was 200 up to the last sessions, when there was an increase of 6 members owing to the admission of Prince Edward Island to Confederation. Ontario had 88 members; Quebec, 65; Nova Scotia, 21; New Brunswick, 16; Manitoba, 4; British Columbia, 6.

In the 3rd Parliament (Jan. 2, 1874, to August 17, 1878), and in the 4th Parliament (Aug. 17, 1878, to May 18, 1882) the representation remained as at the dissolution of the 2nd Parliament, viz:—Ontario, 88; Quebec, 65; Nova Scotia, 21; New Brunswick, 16; Manitoba, 4; British Columbia, 6; Prince Edward Island, 6. Total 206.

The representation in the 5th Parliament (May 16, 1882, to Jan. 15, 1887) under the Representation Act of 1887, was increased to 211, the Ontario representation being increased from 88 to 92 and that of Manitoba from 4 to 5.

In the 6th Parliament (Jan. 15, 1887, to Feb. 3, 1891), the representation remained unchanged, except that in 1887 the North-West Territories were granted representation with 4 members, thus making a total representation of 215.

During the 7th Parliament (Feb. 3, 1891, to April 24, 1896) there was no change in the representation.

In the 8th Parliament (April 24, 1896, to Oct. 9, 1900), under the Representation Act of 1892-3, the representation was as follows:—Ontario, 92; Quebec, 65; Nova Scotia, 20; New Brunswick, 14; Manitoba, 7; British Columbia, 6; Prince Edward Island, 5; North-West Territories, 4. Total, 213.

During the 9th Parliament (Oct. 9, 1900, to Sept. 29, 1904), there was but one change in the representation, a seat being added for the Yukon Territory (Chap. 37, 1902). This made 214 members, distributed as follows:—Ontario, 86; Quebec, 65; Nova Scotia, 18; New Brunswick, 13; Manitoba, 10; North-West Territories, 10; British Columbia, 7; Prince Edward Island, 4; the Yukon Territory, 1.

The House remained so constituted until the dissolution of the 10th Parliament, September 17th, 1908.

During the first session of the Tenth Parliament of Canada (1905) provision was made for the creation of the new provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta out of part of the North-West Territories, and provision was made for the taking of a census of population in the two new provinces, as also in Manitoba, in the middle year of each decade commencing with 1906. The results of the first quinquennial census made necessary, according to the Saskatchewan and Alberta Acts, a readjustment of the representation of Saskatchewan and Alberta in the House of Commons, and at the session of 1906-07 an amendment was passed to the Representation Act (Chapter 5 of the Revised Statutes 1906) providing that the House of Commons shall consist of two hundred and twenty-one (221) members, as follows:—Ontario 86; Quebec, 65; Saskatchewan, 10 (a gain of 4); British Columbia, 7; Alberta, 7 (a gain of 3); Prince Edward Island, 4; Yukon Territory, 1.

By a special clause embodied in this Act, it only took effect upon the dissolution of the 10th Parliament.

During the session of 1914 (3rd session 12th Parlt.) a Redistribution Bill was passed, providing for an increase in the number of members of the House of Commons to 235, divided among the provinces as follows:—Ontario, 82; Quebec, 65; Nova Scotia, 16; New Brunswick, 11; Manitoba, 15; British Columbia 13; Prince Edward Island, 4; Saskatchewan, 16; Alberta, 12; Yukon, 1; Total 235. The new Act came into effect with the dissolution of the Twelfth Parliament.

During the session of 1923 (2nd of the 14th Parlt.) the Government introduced a Redistribution Bill based upon the census of 1921. It was not passed before prorogation and was accordingly re-introduced at the 1924 session and with certain amendments adopted. Under its provisions the Maritime Provinces lose two members; both in Nova Scotia; the Prairie Provinces gain eleven—four going to Alberta, five to Saskatchewan and two to Manitoba. British Columbia gains one. The other provinces remain as at present, as does the representation of Yukon Territory. The net increase in representation for the whole Dominion is, therefore, ten.

The distribution of the seats among the provinces provided for in the Act is as follows:

Prince Edward Island.....	4
Nova Scotia.....	14
New Brunswick.....	11
Quebec.....	65
Ontario.....	82
Manitoba.....	17
Saskatchewan.....	21
Alberta.....	16
British Columbia.....	14
Yukon.....	1
Total.....	<hr/> 245

The functions, powers and prerogatives of the Canadian House of Commons approximate as closely as may be to those possessed by the Lower House of the Parliament of the United Kingdom. Bills for appropriating any part of the Public Revenue, or for imposing any Tax or Impost, must originate in the House of Commons. It is not lawful for the House of Commons to adopt or pass any Vote, Resolution, Address, or Bill for the Appropriation of any Part of the Public Revenue, or of any Tax or Impost, to any Purpose, that has not been first recommended to the House by Message of the Governor-General in the Session in which such Vote, Resolution, Address or Bill is proposed.

In 1887, when the old Northwest Territories were first given representation in the House of Commons, four electoral divisions were created:—

(1) Assiniboia East, adjoining Province of Manitoba; (2) Assiniboia West, next; (3) Alberta, extending to the boundary of British Columbia, and (4) Saskatchewan, in the north. Under the Act of 1903, the two Assiniboias and Saskatchewan were given six seats, namely: Assiniboia East, Assiniboia West, Humboldt, Mackenzie, Qu'Appelle, Saskatchewan. These old divisions practically compose the present Province of Saskatchewan, which, according to the Act of 1906-07, returns 10 members to the House of Commons, the constituencies being: Assiniboia, Battleford, Humboldt, Mackenzie, Moose Jaw, Prince Albert, Qu'Appelle, Regina, Saltcoats and Saskatoon.

The records of the extinct Federal electoral division of the present province of Saskatchewan were as follows:—

Owing to the operation of the Redistribution Act, the constituencies of Lisgar and Selkirk changed names after 1891; that is, the constituency called Lisgar up to and including 1891 has since been called Selkirk, and vice versa. So in the above table, the figures for the elections up to and including 1891 are for what to that date was known as the constituency of Selkirk, but which territorially is identical, or practically so, with the present constituency of Lisgar.

—James S. Lynch.....	282

1874—Robt. Cunningham, L (2).....			42

(1) The first elec. in Marquette after the admiss. of Manitoba into Confed. was held Mar. 2, 1871. The return of the returning officer showed that each of the two candidates had received the same number of votes. The ret. officer had not, as now, the right to give his casting vote. In due course the matter came before the Hon. of C. and was referred to the Com. of Privileges and Elecs., who reported that the ret. officer should (under the old system of double returns) have declared both candidates elected. Under an order of the House (April 25), the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, attended and on motion of the Hon. Mr. Cameron, of Peel, a resolution was passed, instructing the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery to amend the return so as to declare both candidates elected. This was done, and Dr. Lynch, who was present in Ottawa, forthwith subscribed to the oath and took his seat. Then Hon. Mr. Cameron drew attention to the rule which provided that a member must withdraw while the matter of his election was before the House, whereupon Dr. Lynch withdrew. May 13, Mr. McKay, having arrived in Ottawa, presented himself and took the oath and his seat. Under similar conditions as Dr. Lynch he withdrew. A delay of six weeks was allowed the Elec. Com. to enquire into the matter. Before the House finally disposed of the matter Parliament was dissolved. (See Journals of the House.)

(2) Mr. Cunningham died while the protest against his return was before the courts.

PARLIAMENTARY PRESS GALLERY

Membership of the Press Gallery is restricted to bona fide parliamentary representatives of recognized newspapers and news distributing agencies. It is a voluntary, self-governing body subject to the authority of the Speaker in matters affecting House of Commons discipline and membership. The Press Gallery elects its own executive which considers all applications for membership, makes seating arrangements and conducts general business. Decisions of the executive are subject to review by a general meeting of members of the Gallery.

The President (or, in his absence, the Vice-President) acts as spokesman for the Gallery.

PROVINCE OF ALBERTA.

With the Province of Saskatchewan formed from part of the Northwest Territories by Act of Dominion Parliament, 1905 (first session, 10th Parliament). The two provinces are divided by the meridian of 110, west from Greenwich. They lie between British Columbia on the west, and Manitoba and the Northwest Territories on the east, and between the International boundary at the 49th parallel on the south, and the 60th parallel on the north. From north to south each province extends 760 miles, or as long as from the mouth of the Detroit River to the mouth of the Saguenay in a straight line. The area of the two provinces is 504,190 square miles, which is as large as the united areas of Great Britain, France and Germany, as large as the States of Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and the two Dakotas combined, and more than twice as large as the six New England States, together with New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana. The provisions of the B.N.A. Act, 1867, with its several amendments, apply to the new provinces. The public lands are retained by the Government of Canada, and in place of these, as a source of revenue, the provinces receive an annual sum based upon the population as from time to time ascertained by the quinquennial census.

Act creating Province of Alberta came into force Sept. 1, 1905.

Population: (Census of 1911) 374,295; Census of 1921, 588,454. Census 1931, 727,497. Estimate 1932—740,000.

Area 161,872,000 acres of land; 1,510,400 acres of water. Total, 163,383,400 acres or 255,285 square miles.

Seat of Government, Edmonton.

NEW BRUNSWICK LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY

At, and for many years after Confederation, New Brunswick had a Legis. Council as well as a Legis. Assembly. April 16, 1891, and Act (54 Vic., Chap IX) was passed abolishing the Legis. Council and vesting all its powers in the Lieut.-Governor and Assembly, thereafter designated the Legislative Assembly. This Act came into force upon the dissolution of 1892. The "Legislatures" are now officially counted from that date only, the present being known as the "Tenth", although including the sessions prior to 1892, it is really the 17th since Confederation.

Elec. by popular vote—48 members. Last g.e., June 19, 1930. Sessional Indemnity, $1,000 and travelling expenses; the Speaker $400 and the Leader of the Opposition, $1,000 additional.

"In the session of 1924 an Act was passed under which the City of Fredericton and the towns of Devon and Marysville were taken out of the constituency of York County, and made into an independent constituency with one member. Similarly, the towns of St. Stephen and Milltown were taken out of the constituency of Charlotte Co. and allotted their own representative. On this basis the election of 1925 was held. In the session of 1926, however, these two new constituencies were done away with, and conditions as they existed in 1924 were restored.

THE QUEBEC LEGISLATURE.

In accordance with the B.N.A. Act, 1867 (clause 71 and following) the Legislature for the Province of Quebec consists of the Lieutenant-Governor and of two Houses, styled the Legislative Council of Quebec and the Legislative Assembly of Quebec.

The Legislative Councillors are "appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council for life, unless the Legislature of Quebec otherwise provides." The qualifications of the Legislative Councillors are the same as for members of the Senate of Canada and the place of a Legislative Councillor becomes vacant in the cases, mutatis mutandis, in which the place of Senator becomes vacant.

The Legislative Assembly is composed of members elected by the various electoral divisions into which the province is divided.

The work and authority of the two Houses are divided as in the Houses of the Dominion Parliament.

*On the first count of the ballots being taken after the polls were closed, Mr. McLeod was declared elected by a majority of five. However, upon a recount being taken, Mr. McKnight was declared by the Judge to be elected by a majority of fourteen. Upon investigation being instituted it was found that certain ballots had been tampered with in the interval between the first count and the recount, whereupon Mr. McLeod petitioned the Legislature to order and direct that the certificate of the return of the election of Mr. McKnight be amended by striking out Mr. McKnight's name and substituting his own name therefor, and also that steps be taken to give effect to the will of the majority of the people, as recorded in the first count of the ballots, by seating him as the Member for the Constituency of Estevan.

This petition was presented to and received by the Legislature on Feb. 9, 1931 and, after a motion to grant the prayer of the Petitioner had been put to the Assembly and carried, the election return was amended by the Clerk of the Executive Council in accordance with the resolution, and Mr. McLeod took his seat in the house on the following day.

On March 11, 1931, a petition under The Controverted Elections Act, against the undue election of Mr. McLeod, was filed and, upon the trial of the matters alleged in the said petition, it was found by the Judge that Norman Leslie McLeod was not duly elected and that the election was therefore void; the cause, or ground, for such finding being that a number of persons, who were not qualified to vote, voted at the election and that the number of such illegal votes exceeded the majority by which the respondent claimed to have been elected. An appeal from that finding was taken by the respondent to the Court of Appeal and such finding was affirmed in whole by that Court on November 7, 1932.

The seat for the Electoral Division of Estevan is, therefore, now vacant.

SUPREME COURT OF CANADA

The Supreme Court of Canada (as also the Exchequer Court) was constituted in 1875 under "The Supreme and Exchequer Court Act" (38 Vic., Chap. 11).

The Supreme Court has jurisdiction as a High Court of Appeal in both civil and criminal cases throughout the Dominion of Canada. It is also a Court of Appeal for controverted election cases, from the Exchequer Court, from the Board of Railway Commissioners as provided in the Railway Act and under the Winding-up Act. It also has jurisdiction in controversies between the provinces and the Dominion. The Governor-in-Council may refer to the Supreme Court for an opinion upon any matter deemed advisable in the public interest. From the decision of the Supreme Court an appeal lies to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council of Great Britain by special leave of the Judicial Committee in all cases except appeals which come to the Supreme Court from the Exchequer Court sitting as a Court of Admiralty. In the latter case alone there is an appeal as of right.

The Supreme Court sits in Ottawa, where the judges reside and where three sessions annually are held, beginning on the first Tuesday in February, the fourth Tuesday in April and the first Tuesday in October.

In 1896 Parliament amended the Supreme Court Act by repealing s. 4, and substituting therefor the following: "The Supreme Court shall consist of a chief justice, to be called the Chief Justice of Canada, and five puisne judges who shall be appointed by the Governor-in-Council by letters patent under the Great Seal." This section appears in this form in the Supreme Court Act, R.S.C., c. 139, s. 4.

In 1927 the Supreme Court Act was amended by the substitution of this section instead of section 4 of Chap. 139, R.S.C. 1906.

"IV. The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice, to be called the Chief Justice of Canada, and six Puisne judges, who shall be appointed by the Governor-in-Council by letters patent under the Great Seal."

Section IX. of the said Act was amended by adding thereto the following:—

"Provided that each Judge whether heretofore appointed or hereafter to be appointed, shall cease to hold office upon attaining the age of seventy-five years, or immediately, if he has already attained that age."

Sections VII and VIII of the letters patent passed under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom, dated June 15, 1905, constituting the office of Governor-General and Commander in Chief of the Dominion of Canada, read as follow:—

"VII. And we do hereby declare Our pleasure to be that, in the event of the death, incapacity, removal, or absence of Our said Governor-General out of Our said Dominion, all and every the powers and authorities herein granted to him shall, until Our further pleasure is signified therein, be vested in such person as may be appointed by Us under Our Sign Manual and Signet to be Our Lieutenant-Governor of Our said Dominion; or, if there shall be no such person or persons as may be appointed by Us under Our Sign Manual and Signet to administer the Government of the same; and in case there shall be no person or persons within Our said Dominions so appointed by Us, then in Our Chief Justice for the time being of the Supreme Court of Our said Dominion; or, in case of the death, incapacity, removal, or absence out of Our said Dominion of Our said Chief Justice for the time being, then in the Senior Judge for the time being of Our said Supreme Court then residing in Our said Dominion and not being under incapacity.

"Provided always, that the said Senior Judge shall act in the administration of the Government only if and when Our said Chief Justice shall not be present within Our said Dominion and capable of administering the Government.

"Provided further that no such powers or authorities shall vest in such Lieutenant-Governor, or such other person or persons, until he or they shall have taken the Oaths appointed to be taken by the Governor-General of Our said Dominion and in the manner provided by the Instructions accompanying these Our Letters Patent.

"VIII. And we do hereby require and command all Our Officers and Ministers, Civil and Military, and all other, the inhabitants of Our said Dominions, to be obedient, aiding and assisting unto Our said Governor-General; or, in the event of his death, incapacity or absence, to such person or persons as may from time to time, under the provisions of these Our Letters Patent, administer the Government of Our said Dominion."

It was notified in the London Gazette of May 21, 1913, that the King had been pleased to approve of the use and recognition throughout His Majesty's Dominions during tenure of office of the title of "Honourable" in the case of the Chief Justice of Canada, the Judges of the Supreme and Exchequer Courts of Canada and some others.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVES IN CANADA

HIGH COMMISSIONER FOR GREAT BRITAIN

During the Imperial Conference in 1926 the question of representation of the Government of Great Britain at the Dominion capitals was discussed, and the Interimperial Relations Committee of the Conference reported as follows:

“A special aspect of the question of consultation which we considered was that concerning the representation of Great Britain in the Dominions. By reason of his constitutional position, as explained in section IV (b) of this Report, the Governor-General is no longer the representative of His Majesty's Government in Great Britain. There is no one therefore in the Dominion capitals in a position to represent with authority the views of His Majesty's Government in Great Britain.

"We summed up our conclusions in the following resolution which is submitted for the consideration of the Conference:—

"The Governments represented at the Imperial Conference are impressed with the desirability of developing a system of personal contact, both in London and in the Dominion capitals, to supplement the present system of intercommunication and the reciprocal supply of information on affairs requiring joint consideration. The manner in which any new system is to be worked out is a matter for consideration and settlement between His Majesty's Governments in Great Britain and the Dominions, with due regard to the circumstances of each particular part of the Empire, it being understood that any new arrangements should be supplementary to, and not in replacement of, the system of direct communication from Government to Government and the special arrangements which have been in force since 1918 for communications between Prime Ministers."

This resolution was adopted by the Conference as part of the report of the Internimperial Relations Committee.

OFFICIAL PRECEDENCE

The establishment and the maintenance of tables or scales of official precedence result from the fact that in all nations and communities there are individuals, who, because they have entrusted to them by the nation the performance of certain responsible and honorable official or communal functions, are by common accord, regarded, either for the time being, or permanently, as occupying positions of various degrees of eminence in the social fabric.

In the old patriarchal communities social pre-eminence was naturally accorded to the heads of the tribal families, and precedence throughout the tribes was generally regulated by the seniority of the sons of the patriarchs and the individuals of their families. Of course there were exceptions to this rule, due to the personal ambitions and achievements of individuals.

Since nations have been evolved from the old tribal organizations, an official class of citizens has been developed, comprising those who, besides occupying the usual position of members of the state, have entrusted to them the execution of what have been described as the life functions of the nation; that is such functions as are peculiar to the civic organization in contradistinction to the general functions exercised and actions performed by individual citizens as independent units. Official service calls in a special degree for a sense of duty to the public trust, and in many cases for a spirit of sacrifice and, if needs be, self effacement. In recognition of these conditions, and often for very practical state reasons, special privileges are granted to certain of the more responsible officials within the spheres appointed for them. So public service has come to be the one outstanding element in determining relative rank in social etiquette—the corner stone of all official tables of social precedence.

“Precedence” has been defined as the priority of place, or superiority in rank, in the conventional system of arrangement under which the more eminent and dignified orders of a community are classified on occasion of public ceremony and in the intercourse of private life.

Public functions of some form or another occur with more or less frequency in every state, and those who serve and represent the people in official capacities are necessarily the principal, often the only, participants. An ordinary sense of decency, not to speak of dignity or that wholesome sense of national pride which exists in all races, demands that such functions be orderly, and that the monopoly of places of honour be placed beyond the accomplishment of the assuming upstart and unworthy elements to the exclusion of those entrusted by the nation with the administration of its affairs and the guardianship of its interests and honour, and thus, in a very special sense, representing it.

It is not alone in countries where monarchical systems of government prevail that precedence is a subject of official regulation, republics finding it indispensable that provision be made for checking the tendency of ambitious and often selfish and unpatriotic individuals and elements to monopolize the highest distinctions and honours and ignore the claims of the devoted and trusted officers and servants of the nation—its recognized official representatives. The famous "protocol" of the French Republic is a case in point.

Throughout the British Empire or Commonwealth of Nations, the "Tables" or "Scales" of Precedence emanate from the Crown, and are issued under authority of the Sovereign. The Crown is "the fountain of honour," and it is its undoubted prerogative to confer on any of its subjects, in any part of its dominions, such titles and distinctions and such rank and place "as to it may seem meet and convenient." Its discretion is limited in those cases only wherein it has been submitted to restraint by Act of Parliament.

There is not, even in the Mother Country, any complete and comprehensive code whereby the scheme of social gradation has been defined and settled, once and for all, on a permanent foundation. The principles and rules at present controlling it have been formulated at different periods and have been derived from various sources.

In the old time, questions of precedence came in the ordinary course of things within the jurisdiction of the Courts of Chivalry in which figured such picturesque officials as lord high constables, earl marshals, kings of arms, heralds, pursuivants, etc. Points of unusual moment were referred to and decided by the sovereign in person, the privy council, or parliament.

Although there were "estates" titles and orders of various degrees in England from earliest historical times the oldest English table of precedence in existence is the "Order of All Estates of Nobles and Gentry" prepared for the coronation of Henry IV in 1399.

In the thirty-first year of King Henry VIII, Parliament, by statutory enactment, took cognizance of Precedence. It then passed the "Act for Placing the Lords," which, although it concerned directly only the Great Officers of State, and referred but incidentally to the places of the Nobility, has since been considered the chief authority for the marshalling of dignities.

This Act was originated, it is important to remember, by the desire of the King, and it is declared, as a preliminary, that "although it appertained altogether to the Royal Prerogative to give such honour, reputation, and placing to his Councillors and others his subjects as should be seeming to the King's most excellent wisdom, the King was nevertheless pleased and contented for an order to be had and taken in his Most High Court of Parliament for the placing of the Great Officers and Lords."

The Statute of Henry VIII was in the nature of a declaratory Act, confirming the ancient and pre-existing Law of Precedence, and, in confirmation of this, it is a matter of historical fact that the advice of Garter King of Arms was taken before the bill was brought in. This Act of King Henry VIII's parliament still remains the only legislative measure in which it has been attempted to deal directly and systematically with any large and important section of the English scale or Table of Precedence. (There are separate tables for Scotland, Ireland, Wales, each Dominion, India and the Crown Colonies.)

Where no act of Parliament applies, precedence is determined by the will of the Sovereign or by what is accepted as "ancient usage and established custom."

Lists that show practice and custom in matters of precedence, such as are seen in the published accounts of assemblies of the estates of the realm such as at solemnities—Coronations, funerals, and the like, have been invoked in the preparation of the various Tables of precedence at present in force throughout the Empire.

Strict observance of these lists is insisted upon, for the principle underlying the maintenance of these lists is the protection of established right; and the least interference, unless made by Royal or Parliamentary authority, would be destructive of the right of some one entitled to rank on the scale, and not unlikely to dishonour the State in the person of a recognized representative.

It is Men's rank that confers precedence and regulates State Ceremonials. At the King's Courts, where husbands and wives pass His Majesty together, the precedence of the husbands is that which is regarded.

The wives and children of great officers of State and of all of those who derive their places on the scale from official rank, have no consequent precedence.

Foreign Titles of Nobility borne by British subjects afford their holders no precedence whatever in the Mother Country or elsewhere in the Empire, and, strictly speaking, a Royal License should be obtained for their use.

Persons entitled to precedence in the United Kingdom, in Foreign Countries, or in any particular Dominion or Colony, are not entitled, as of a right, to the same precedence elsewhere; but in the absence of any special Instruction from the King, the precedence of such persons in the Overseas Dominions and Colonies of the British Commonwealth is determined by the King's Representative (the Governor General or Governor).

TABLE OF PRECEDENCE FOR CANADA.

The official Table of Precedence is established and subject to regulations by the Home Government, acting through the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonies. The first table of Precedence for the Dominion was prepared at Confederation. The first important amendment was announced in despatches from the Secretary of State for the Colonies bearing date Nov. 3, 1879 and published in the Statutes of Canada of 1880 (43 Victoria, p. XXII). The next amendment was announced in a despatch dated Downing Street, Dec. 29, 1893, and published in the Canada Gazette, Jan. 20, 1894. The last noted amendment assigned, on the recommendation of the Dominion Government, precedence to the Controllers of Customs and Inland Revenue and the Lieutenant-Governors of Manitoba, British Columbia, Prince Edward Island and the North West Territories.

During the administration of Sir Mackenzie Bowell some suggestions for a further revision of the Table of Precedence were made to the Colonial Office, but there was a change of Government before the matter reached a final issue.

December, 1923, a revised Table of Precedence approved by the King, and despatched from the Colonial Office, December 3, 1923, was received by His Excellency the Governor-General and published in the Canada Gazette on December 22nd as follows:—

29. The Speaker of the Legislative Council within his Province.
30. Members of the Legislative Council within their Province.
31. The Speaker of the Legislative Assembly within his Province.
32. Members of the Legislative Assembly within their Province.

NOTE—Judges at present on the retired list and Judges at present holding Office but who shall retire after the date of the New Table shall not be affected as to Precedence given to them by the Old Table*

In the revised table the designation of places for the Lieutenant Governors of Saskatchewan and Alberta (9 and 10) are new; so are section 11, designating the place of the Prime Minister of Canada; section 13, according places to "The Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, the General Superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, and the corresponding head of the Baptist Church in Canada"; section 19, providing for the Prime Ministers of the Provinces of Canada; the concluding clause of section 20, providing for the Judge appointed to perform the duties of Chief Justice at Quebec and Montreal; section 27, providing for the Chief of Staff National Defence, the Director of Naval Services and the Director of the Air Force provided they are of the rank of Major-General or its equivalent or higher rank. The Speaker and members of the House of Commons are given relatively higher place than accorded to them in the old list.

An important feature of the revised table is the omission of any reference to Imperial Privy Councillors. Since 1903 it had been the practice, with the sanction of the Governor-General, to accord certain precedence to Imperial Privy Councillors; and the omission of reference to such officers in the revised list has been taken as an indication that the practice mentioned be discontinued, and it has been.

Official rank and position, although conferring special official precedence on the holder of the office as per the Table of Precedence, does not do so any more in Canada than in the Mother Country, upon the holder's wife and children. Thus the wives and children of Privy Councillors, Senators, Judges, members of Parliament, and officers of state, as such, have no special precedence, except such as is accorded to them (and it is always done) as a compliment. Widows of Privy Councillors, Senators, Judges, or public officials, have no claims to complimentary precedence as such, any claim they might have had in that respect lapsing with the demise of their husbands.

*Retired Judges were given precedence next after the present Judge of their respective Courts by the Old Table.

Knightly titles or other Imperial titles and appointments do not entitle the holders to any recognition under the Official Table of Precedence for Canada.

This is a fact which is often overlooked by those in charge of semi-official and popular ceremonial events, and gentlemen entitled to precedence in Canada by the official table sanctioned by the Sovereign, often find themselves ignored in favour of others having no claim whatever to precedence in Canada although they may be entitled to recognized places in the Mother Country or other parts of the Empire.

Members of the Royal Family while in Canada take precedence next after the Governor-General, this according to a rule in effect throughout His Majesty's Dominions.

IMPERIAL ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

Held in Ottawa

July 21st to August 20th, 1932.

Owing to the limited space available in this book of reference, the editor will try to give in a short resume the outstanding features of the historical events which took place in Canada during the present year.

At the Imperial Conference of 1930, held in London, it was agreed that a further Conference would be held the following year, but to meet the convenience of all the Governments concerned, it was later found desirable to postpone the Conference until the summer of 1932. Toward the middle of January, 1932, invitations were issued by the Canadian Government for the Conference to meet in Ottawa in July. The Conference, which assembled here on July 21st, was the first Imperial Conference to meet outside of London. The Colonial Conference of 1894, which met in Ottawa at the invitation of the Canadian Government, was primarily a gathering of the Overseas Dominions interested in the extension of cable and mail facilities, though a representative of the Government of the United Kingdom was also present.

Following was the Agenda prepared for the Conference:

AGENDA

As a result of discussions which proceeded for several months between His Majesty's Governments, it was agreed that the economic questions of general importance to the various parts of the Commonwealth might be conveniently discussed under the following general headings, which constituted the Agenda for the Conference:—

A. GENERAL TRADE QUESTIONS

1. Examination of aspects of general trade and tariff policy, and administration affecting Empire trade, including, inter alia, the following subjects:—
 - (a) Recognition of the principle of reciprocal tariff preferences within the Commonwealth;
 - (b) General application of existing and future tariff preferences within the Commonwealth;
 - (c) Extension to other parts of the Commonwealth of tariff advantages accorded foreign countries;
 - (d) Determination of percentage of "Empire Content" necessary to secure preferential tariff treatment;
 - (e) Export bounties and anti-dumping duties within the Commonwealth.

2. Commercial Treaty Policy with respect to foreign countries, including, inter alia:—
 - (a) Relation of inter-Imperial preferences to concessions to foreign countries;
 - (b) Interpretation of most-favoured-nation clause, particularly with reference to the development of regional preferences and of systems of import quotas.
3. Consideration of the appropriate basis and means of effecting inter-Imperial economic co-operation, including review of existing agencies, examination of the report of the Imperial Economic Committee on Industrial Co-operation, and discussion of communications and of research and standardization.

B. MONETARY AND FINANCIAL QUESTIONS

Consideration of existing inter-relationships of the various currencies and monetary standards of the Empire, and of the desirability and feasibility of taking steps to restore and stabilize the general price level and to stabilize exchange.

C. NEGOTIATION OF TRADE AGREEMENTS

The Conference was very largely concerned with the exploration of ways and means of increasing trade between the various parts of the British Commonwealth. For this purpose, a series of trade agreements were negotiated during the Conference and signed at its closing Session. (A list of the Trade Agreements signed at the Conference will be found on page 656.)

The Proceedings of the Conference opened in Ottawa, on Thursday, 21st of July, 1932, and were continued until Saturday, the 20th of August. The Delegates at the Conference were as follows:

CANADA

The Rt. Hon. R. B. BENNETT, K.C., M.P., Prime Minister and Secretary of State for External Affairs.

The Rt. Hon. Sir GEORGE PERLEY, K.C.M.G., M.P., Minister without Portfolio.

The Rt. Hon. ARTHUR MEIGHEN, K.C., Minister without Portfolio.

OPENING SESSION

At eleven o'clock a.m., His Excellency the Governor General proceeded to the Commons Chamber and took his seat upon the Throne.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL: I have the honour to communicate to you a Message from the King, which His Majesty has been graciously pleased to command me to deliver to you.

"My thoughts and prayers are with the delegates of my Governments who are gathered in Conference to-day, to explore the means by which they may promote the prosperity of the Peoples of this great Empire.

At this Conference you are opening a new page of history, on which, within a few weeks will be written the record of a determined effort to solve the difficulties weighing so heavily, not only on us, but upon the whole world. It is my earnest hope that when this Conference rises there will be a record of results worthily reflecting the frankness, the sincerity, and the spirit of helpfulness with which, I feel confident, your deliberations will be conducted.

The British Empire is based on the principle of co-operation, and it is now your common purpose to give the fullest possible effect to that principle in the economic sphere. By so doing you will set in motion beneficial forces within the British Commonwealth which may well extend their impulse also to the world at large. I pray that you may be given clear insight and strength of purpose for these ends.

GEORGE R.I."

21st July, 1932.

His Excellency, on behalf of the Government and people of Canada, welcomed the delegations who had come from Overseas, and delivered an address to the Conference, which is included in Annex I.

On the motion of the Leader of the Delegation of the United Kingdom, seconded by the Leader of the Delegation of Australia, the Prime Minister of Canada was asked to take the Chair at the meetings of the Conference and of the Heads of Delegations.

As its first official act, the Conference placed on record a resolution of respectful devotion to His Majesty the King, which was moved by the Prime Minister of Canada as Chairman of the Conference, and seconded by the Leader of the Delegation of India, and passed unanimously. (See page 658).

The following gracious reply, signed by His Majesty, was received and was read to the Conference by the Chairman:—

"The Queen and I have received with sincere pleasure the message of good will and devotion sent to us by the representatives of the Governments of the British Commonwealth at the opening of the Ottawa Conference. Please convey to them our grateful thanks. I shall follow the course of your deliberations with the closest interest and with the confident hope that your labours will be crowned with success.

GEORGE R.I."

TRADE AGREEMENTS SIGNED AT THE CLOSING SESSION OF THE IMPERIAL ECONOMIC CONFERENCE, 1932

- I. United Kingdom-Australia.....
- II. United Kingdom-Union of South Africa.....
- III. United Kingdom-New Zealand.....
- IV. United Kingdom-India.....
- V. United Kingdom-Newfoundland.....
- VI. United Kingdom-Southern Rhodesia.....
- VII. United Kingdom-Canada.....
- VIII. Canada-Irish Free State.....
- IX. Canada-Union of South Africa.....
- X. Canada-Southern Rhodesia.....
- XI. Union of South Africa-Irish Free State.....

Another important question dealt with at the Conference was that relating to the restoration of price levels and the stabilization of exchange. A great deal of discussion took place on these subjects and, while it was not found practicable to reach a satisfactory solution of the problems involved on a purely Imperial basis, it was felt that the Conference provided a suitable opportunity for a very thorough discussion and exchange of views on financial and monetary matters. This experience should prove very useful in connection with the work of the World Economic Conference which it is expected will meet in London this Spring.

CLOSING SESSION

On August the 20th, Plenary Session of the Conference took place when the Trade Agreements were signed.

Before closing, the following Message was received from His Majesty and read by the Chairman.

"I appreciate very much the message which the representatives of the Governments of the British Commonwealth have sent to me on the termination of the Ottawa Conference. The Queen and I thank them all most sincerely for their expression of devotion and good wishes. Your work has been arduous and intricate, but I rejoice to think that your achievement has justified the high expectations with which the Conference began, and that you have been able not only to conclude important practical agreements for the promotion of trade within the British Empire, but also to adopt principles to help its future development.

"I am confident that the results of your labours, and the spirit of co-operation and mutual helpfulness which has brought about their success, will be of real benefit to my peoples.

"I wish you all Godspeed, and a safe and happy journey homeward.

GEORGE R.I."

The Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Chairman of the Conference, declared the Conference closed as follows:—

"Then it becomes my pleasure to declare this Conference closed and to thank you for the opportunity it has afforded us all to know one another. It is my earnest hope and my prayer that you may have a safe journey home."

ANNEX I

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL:

Having delivered to you His Majesty's message, I now have the privilege, on behalf of the Government and people of Canada, of welcoming to the Capital City of this Dominion those of you who come from Overseas.

My Government appreciated very deeply the cordial manner in which other Governments throughout the Empire have accepted their invitation to send representatives to Ottawa, and I know well that, from coast to coast, all Canada echoes that appreciation.

You come here, therefore, as the honoured guests of Canada. But, Gentlemen, you all meet here—guests and hosts alike—burdened with great responsibilities; you meet to-day as the chosen Trustees of Empire, knowing that your deliberations will materially affect the future welfare of millions.

Twenty-eight years ago, it fell to my predecessor, Lord Aberdeen, to welcome here a distinguished assembly of delegates from the British Empire overseas, but that gathering was a Colonial Conference and not an Imperial Conference, as are the meetings initiated to-day; for, in the years that have intervened, immense and far-reaching events have occurred, affecting profoundly the development of that Empire; yet they have left unchanged the spirit which unites it, the common allegiance to the Crown, and the common ideals which have brought you now to Ottawa.

When, in 1914, war shattered the peace of the whole world, those ideals were subjected to their sternest test; they emerged from it unimpaired, for the units of the Empire, united, perhaps, as they had never been before, gave freely of their best to serve the common cause. It is appropriate to recall that, in this very building where you meet, is set the Memorial Chamber, consecrated as the national shrine of Canada's glorious contribution to that cause; to all of us, from whatever land we come, it may serve as a solemn reminder of the strength that unity, and unity alone, can achieve.

To-day, though the shadow of war is not upon us, we are still faced by the inevitable, sombre, consequences of war; the economic crisis, under the load of which the whole world staggers, is its most bitter legacy.

It is, indeed, in exceptional circumstances that the Conference meets. Unique in its setting, in that no Imperial Conference has hitherto met save in London, it may well be the most momentous gathering ever held within the British Empire. The outcome may change its whole destiny; and, if your meeting achieves, as all hope it may, results that will strengthen the Empire to surmount the difficulties which this troubled age has thrown in its path, who can tell but that the Empire, in saving itself by its own united efforts, may not save the whole world by its example?

In places of worship of every denomination throughout this Dominion, prayers are being offered up to Almighty God for your guidance at this Conference. I humbly join the people of Canada in their prayers for divine blessing upon your deliberations.

RIGHT HON. MR. BALDWIN: It is my privilege and my duty, as leader of the British delegation, to propose the appointment of a Chairman of this Conference. In the Chamber of the Commons House of Parliament of this ancient Dominion one name will be present to all our minds, the name of a statesman who by virtue of his great position, his abilities and his character would seem admirably fitted to preside over our deliberations. I propose, with a happy confidence, that the Right Honourable Richard Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, be appointed Chairman of the Imperial Conference.

RIGHT HON. MR. BRUCE: It is my privilege to support Mr. Baldwin in his proposal that Mr. Bennett should take the Chair at this Imperial Conference. I endorse all that he has said of the great qualities that Mr. Bennett possesses to preside over this historic gathering, and I have the very greatest pleasure in seconding the proposal that the Right Honourable Richard Bennett be the Chairman of this Imperial Conference.

RIGHT HON. MR. BALDWIN: Will those in favour say aye? Contrary? Carried unanimously.

THE CHAIRMAN: Gentlemen, I thank you for the great honour you have done Canada and Canadians by electing me Chairman of this Conference. I shall endeavour to discharge my duties as to expedite in every possible way the transaction of the business for which we are met.

The first business will be a resolution of loyalty to His Majesty the King, and I will move the resolution myself.

I propose that the following resolution should be adopted:

"The representatives of the Governments of the British Commonwealth, assembled in conference at Ottawa at their first meeting, and as their first official act, desire to present their respectful duty to the King, to thank him for his gracious message which has just been read by His Excellency the Governor General. They join in thanksgiving for Your Majesty's continued health, and earnestly hope that Your Majesty and Her Majesty the Queen may long be spared to strengthen the feelings of love and devotion shared by all the peoples of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

I will call upon one of the representatives from India to second it.

SIR ATUL CHATTERJEE: I have the great and proud privilege to second this loyal resolution.

THE CHAIRMAN: You have heard the motion which I have just put from the Chair, seconded by the head of the Indian delegation, Sir Atul Chatterjee. I now invite you to express your approval of it by rising.

(The delegates rose.)

THE CHAIRMAN: The message will now be dispatched to His Majesty the King.

OPENING STATEMENTS

Opening statements were made by the Leaders of the delegations of Canada, United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand, Union of South Africa, Irish Free State, Newfoundland, India, and Southern Rhodesia, in that order.

Gentlemen, we will now proceed with our addresses in the order which has been heretofore followed at previous conferences, except that at the instance of the Right Honourable Stanley Baldwin, the head of the delegation from the United Kingdom, I shall precede rather than follow him.

Gentlemen, on behalf of the Canadian people I welcome you. This is a proud day for Canada, for in its capital city are gathered delegates from throughout the British Empire, empowered to speak for one-quarter of the earth's population and instructed to co-operate in determining a plan by which this great Empire may continue its leadership among the nations. This Conference in many ways is unique among all other assemblies of history. At no time have there been more fully represented the countries which comprise the British Empire. At no time have we been faced with greater need for unselfish and concerted action. At no time have the prospects of achievement been more certain.

We meet in days when the machinery of world commerce is out of gear. International finance has broken down; the old-fashioned industrial life to which we have grown accustomed has undergone a change. We move toward a new economic order of things. Our part in fashioning it depends in large measure upon the outcome of this Conference. Since the prosperity of other years has left us we have been witness to the efforts made in many countries throughout this time of trial to recover the happiness and plenty which, despite intervening troubles, we yet should claim to be the birthright of us all. And these heroic efforts, because they failed or but in part succeeded, do not on that account commend themselves less warmly to us. They merely serve to show that recovery is beyond the strength of any single nation.

Recently at Lausanne the nations of the Old World by a like unselfishness have laid the foundation of a better understanding and have exchanged old doubts and fears for a new confidence and trust. To those who, out of the seeming dissension of the earlier days of that Conference have brought agreement, we offer our tribute of sincere praise. And we rejoice that there the representatives of the motherland have maintained its tradition as a sure guide to whose wise counsel and direction the world will always be indebted. Lausanne demonstrates the force of united effort directed toward the achievement of a common purpose.

We have a common purpose. We have a supreme desire to achieve it. And there can be no group of countries in the wide world so capable of united action as are the countries which comprise the Empire.

Therefore we are equipped and ready for the task. It would be folly to pretend it is not a great one. It would not be British to turn aside because it is. Great though it may be, grave as are the difficulties, we cannot hesitate. We are bound in loyalty and self-interest to go forward, knowing as we must that our success means the beginning of a new and greater prosperity for ourselves, the Empire, and the world.

We may take heart, for there is no task of which we are incapable. When we marshal the strength of the Empire, which is the sum total of its co-operating parts, we are invincible; provided each part brings to the whole its maximum contribution. None of us should come to this Conference asking that the others do for us what by every test we should do for ourselves. We must see to it that we are prepared to make some contribution to the whole, knowing that in that way only can we expect the whole to make some contribution to us.

In that belief Canada in the last two years has done as best she might to increase her power for self-service and for Empire service. Only the other day this Government concluded a treaty with our friends and neighbours, the United States of America, by which the St. Lawrence Waterway and the Great Lakes will be made into a great seaway through which the commerce of the Empire will be carried to the heart of this continent, and through which the products of this country will go out to all parts of the Empire. This waterway will be free to all ships of the Commonwealth, and I believe will be the sure means by which the parts of the Empire will be brought still closer to one another.

These times of stress have found none among you lacking in determination to care for yourselves. Great Britain, confronted with changing world conditions, has by new means strengthened herself to meet them, and by fiscal and financial re-adjustments has maintained her age-old power to withstand adversity. All parts of the Empire have been resolute and resourceful in the face of universal misfortune.

We have done, each one of us, what we might to maintain our integrity and have not abandoned our national position in face of those influences which threatened to destroy it. In this great world upheaval we have suffered, but we have not surrendered. The vital forces which have made us what we are, continue unimpaired. We have endured and fought back with all our might the economic surge which swept upon us. To-day we are come together, tested by tribulation, wiser through experience, bound one to the other as joint heirs of a great past and of a great future to be built upon the foundations of a new and enduring plan of Empire co-operation.

For a great many years Colonial and Imperial Conferences have discussed the question of closer Empire association and have searched for a formula by which it might be brought about. Throughout these Conferences is to be found the evident desire for an improvement in Empire trade relationships through the general application of tariff preferences.

At the Imperial Economic Conference held in London two years ago, Canada submitted what she conceived to be the basis of a plan for closer economic association.

That plan was predicated upon the general adoption of preferential tariffs, and we maintained that such a plan could best provide reciprocal benefits to those participating in it. At that time a most profitable enquiry, in my opinion, was held into the merits of our proposal, and all competing plans and projects were fairly and fully canvassed. The Empire as a whole was not then ready to adopt our plan. By common consent the Conference was adjourned. This Conference follows upon that adjournment.

In the interval, as I have said, the United Kingdom has adopted the principle of tariffs as an instrument of economic advancement. As a consequence, the difficulty in adopting our plan has been removed. Our policies are now uniform. Our desire for achievement is even greater now than then. Our common need is now more urgent. No one, therefore, can now deny that the time for action has arrived, and that the British Empire at last is able to fulfill its long-time hope of real and helpful closer Empire economic association. And that the son of the greatest protagonist of Empire trade is to-day one of the delegates to this Conference seems to me prophetic.

I will resubmit in principle my earlier proposal, with such modifications as the present circumstances make advisable.

I do not need to tell you that its terms have engaged the anxious attention of His Majesty's Government in Canada. We have considered the question not only from the point of view of our own advantage, but also from the point of view of yours. And we have resolved upon a proposal which we believe it will be to our common interest to disclose at the outset of this Conference, so that there may be before you for examination—and we earnestly trust acceptance—the plan this Government holds to be the best.

What do we hope for from this Conference? The answer is, I think, from all of us, greater markets within the Empire. This is the answer from all of us undoubtedly, if we are persuaded, as I am, that greater Empire markets mean as well greater world markets. For to us in Canada closer Empire economic association does not mean in any sense world dissociation. The trading potentialities of this Empire are great. But even one-quarter of the human race cannot profitably shut itself off from contact with the rest of the world.

When we reach an agreement by which our products pass more freely from one Empire country to another, we drive clear channels through the stagnant pools dammed up by the world upheaval, and naturally we will carry past the boundaries of the Empire and to its benefits, establish once more again throughout the world that commerce which is its very life blood. The British people in their vigour, industry, and experience have nothing to fear from foreign competition when they are united in that economic association which is now possible. When from this Conference that results, we will welcome fair and friendly competition. In our own interest we will welcome it.

But we have no right to invite unfair attack upon the plan so full of promise for us. We within the British Empire have established our own standards of living. Those it is our duty to safeguard. I am disinclined to comment adversely upon the standard of living of any other country, or upon the economic scheme on which that standard of living is based. But I do say that where they are unlike and antagonistic to our own, we must resist the conscious or unconscious efforts to put them in free competition with our own.

The plan we must achieve will lead us through this world period of re-organization and change. So when we find our orderly progress opposed, and when our social and industrial existence is threatened, it is our common duty to provide the safeguards which will leave us free to go forward on the course we have decided to be the right one. State-controlled standards of living, state-controlled labour, state-aided dumping dictated by high state policy, conflict in theory and in practice with the free institutions of the British Empire. The subordination of individual right and liberty to a national economic plan affronts our whole idea of national development. We must be active in the defence of our institutions. We must put before all else our peace and happiness.

As we desire greater Empire markets, it is our task to decide the means by which they may be obtained. As each of us must find markets for our exportable surplus products, it is in our common interest to achieve a plan which will provide the maximum exchange of goods compatible with those domestic considerations fundamental to the development of our natural resources. Those considerations cannot be forgotten if the Empire project is to succeed.

In the past, Canada's manufactured products have enjoyed a measure of protection, though at times it is claimed by some a not wholly adequate measure of protection, in the home market. Our natural products have enjoyed little or no fiscal advantage over their foreign competitors in Empire markets. It is now our hope to secure it for them. Inasmuch as the ideal application of the principle of protection involves an equalization of benefits thereunder as between manufactured and natural products, it is the desire of this Government to effect that equalization and to find a way for our exporters into Empire markets by giving the exporters from those markets a way into ours.

Under our prevailing tariff system, Canada is equipped to make this readjustment. The United Kingdom, through its existing tariff preferences and their application in principle to natural products, will be similarly equipped. We, therefore, will propose that the United Kingdom shall extend the principle of her present tariff preferences to natural products. And on our own part we are prepared to make the necessary adjustments in our tariffs to secure the advantages which we believe will come from this arrangement. Those Canadian industries which now have reached maturity under protective tariffs and are competing in world markets must support this proposal because of the great advantages that are to be obtained for the exporters of natural products. And they will support it, for it is clear that to the country as a whole there will come as a result an increased prosperity in which they cannot fail to fully share.

I have said, before, and I do not desire to minimize the fact, that Canada must have greater export markets for its natural products. No country can live unto itself in this complex age, and with our relatively small population, with our vast and varied natural resources, with our immense exportable surplus in natural products, we perhaps above all other countries must be assured of other markets than our own. And I confidently believe that the people of the United Kingdom will not hesitate to support our proposal knowing on their part it will mean increased prosperity to many of their basic industries, and through them increased prosperity to all classes in the land.

The Dominion of Canada has always enjoyed free entry into the markets of the United Kingdom. That has been helpful to our development, and we make full acknowledgment of the fact. That free entry has been for products which, generally speaking, did not come in competition with their own. We now propose that the United Kingdom have free entry into Canada for her products which will not unjuriously affect Canadian enterprise. Canada in the days when its industrial structure was less strong than it is now, granted to the United Kingdom preferences in her markets. Those preferences we now propose to increase in respect to a selected list of commodities in which Great Britain is especially equipped to supply the Canadian market. And we will ask that for those natural and processed products which comprise the most important part of our exports, we be given a preference. The proposal to us seems a just and reasonable one. Just, upon the basis of the concessions we will be called upon to make; reasonable, upon the basis that the great basic industries of both countries should be the ones selected for preferential treatment because upon the welfare of those industries depends primarily the welfare of their countries.

This Government has tested the soundness of our proposals by the means most likely to determine it. By this arrangement our standard of living will be unaffected. By this arrangement the consumer will be safeguarded against an unwarrantable increase in the cost of commodities. If we apply the same tests to the situation in the United Kingdom, we believe that they will provide the same answer. For inasmuch as this project aims equitably to distribute the concessions which it entails, and equitably to distribute the benefits it confers, in the long run it will prove to be just and beneficial to all classes in all communities of both countries.

On the assumption that measures will be taken to ensure the effective operation of the agreement will not be impaired by the unfair competition to which I have referred, Canada proposes to grant to the United Kingdom: (1) extension of the free list; (2) retention of the existing preferences in favour of Great Britain, and (3) increased preferences in respect of a selected list of articles in which Great Britain is especially equipped to supply the Canadian market without injuring efficient Canadian enterprise.

And in exchange Canada asks: (1) the retention of existing preferences, and (2) their effective extension to those other natural and processed products of which the United Kingdom is an importer.

The proposal of this Government has been put in terms general enough to permit the consideration of all items that may rightfully claim to fall within the principle of it. It is made specific enough to permit of its discussion by the general Conference and of its detailed analysis by technical committees to be set up for that purpose.

The agreement should be an enduring one.

This is not the time for ephemeral treaties. We must decide our course and follow it unswervingly. An arrangement terminable on short notice would, I fear, have but the effect of increasing instability of conditions. And trade stability is essential to our recovery. Furthermore, a short-time agreement would, in our view, but suggest a real doubt as to its advantages.

We have come together in confidence of our power to work out a plan for our common benefit. Let us manifest this confidence by adopting a plan the lifetime of which will outlast any vicissitudes which may counsel its abrogation. But provision for flexibility must be made, so that either country may negotiate foreign trade agreements without impairing the effectiveness of agreed preferences. I say that in the successful pursuit of this plan, we will achieve the added power which we all desire, to enlarge our place in markets beyond the Empire.

This proposal is directed to the United Kingdom, but in principle it is offered to all the other parts of the Empire wherever its application will be mutually advantageous.

With the two great Dominions of Australia and New Zealand we have, within the past year, made trade agreements which, I believe, are already proving mutually advantageous. Those agreements in the light of this proposal may be reviewed and if possible made more comprehensive.

Concurrently with the primary task of enquiring into the fiscal proposal we have made, an examination will be carried on, by a committee set up for that purpose, into the monetary question with a view to agreeing on some plan to be made the basis of a discussion in a larger world conference, or of taking such measures as will be helpful, in so far as they may operate until action on a wider scale is possible.

Committees may be set up to examine other agencies of inter-Imperial co-operation, capable of contribution toward the effective operation of the fiscal arrangements upon which we will agree.

Delegates to this Conference of the British peoples:

When we look back upon the long road this Empire has travelled and see the milestones of achievement which mark the progress of its advance, we are given full courage to continue. For whatever may be the obstacles which confront us, more formidable ones already have been met and overcome.

At other times we have been faced with tasks which then seemed hopeless of accomplishment. The strong hearts and minds of our forebears triumphed over them and handed on to us an ever greater Empire built upon their prowess and their sacrifice. This they did in trust that we should keep it safe. And we accept the trust.

We have no fear because the road seems dark. By our united will it shall become a bright one. The Empire is at the crossroads. Which way point faith and hope? That way we follow.

RIGHT HON. MR. BALDWIN: Sir, on behalf of the United Kingdom delegation, before I proceed to my speech, I should like to say how grateful we are for the inspiring message delivered by His Excellency the Governor General on behalf of the Dominion of Canada to welcome all the delegations. I should like further to thank the Prime Minister for his speech, and to say that we look forward to studying sympathetically the proposals on the lines he has laid down, and we will do our utmost to co-operate with good will to accomplish the purpose that he has in view.

As leader of the United Kingdom Delegation at the Conference of 1926 I was associated with a series of resolutions, unanimously agreed, which not only defined the constitutional relationship with one another of the various parts of the Empire but gave to the world a new form of political partnership based on the positive desire of each to co-operate with the other. To-day the Conference is concerned with economic relationships, where Empire co-operation is similarly of vital importance, and I am proud once more to lead a Delegation that, as in 1926, intends to work with you to that end.

It is a good augury that there are associated with this Conference many of those who took part in the work of 1926.

We all have great expectations of the successful outcome of this great gathering of the representatives of the peoples of the Empire. There is not one country represented here that is not suffering from depression and disappointment—not one that does not look to Ottawa to give fresh stimulus and fresh hope. I most confidently believe that we shall not be disappointed, and I trust that we shall end the Conference with definite arrangements made for our mutual advantage. But the real importance of Ottawa lies in the fact that it marks the point where two roads diverge, the one leading to the development of purely national interests, the other to closer Imperial unity, and to the recognition of advantages in mutual co-operation in trade. If when our task is finished we can say that we have definitely taken this latter road, the actual distance progressed is of minor importance, because progress will continue, and in the future we shall always be approaching nearer and nearer to the goal.

It will be in your minds, as it is in ours, that as a result of the change in our fiscal policy this Conference has a degree of freedom which has been denied to earlier Conferences. Though the field open to us in the past has been limited, the principle of imperial preference has been recognized and the preferences we were able to give have been of considerable value. Those given in respect of commodities such as sugar, wine, tobacco, coffee, dried fruits, and the preferences under the McKenna duties have been a real stimulus to Empire trade. Now under the new policy which our country has adopted we have given to the Empire a wide extension of preference under the Import Duties Act, by which free entry has been provisionally granted. It is now open to us to deal over a wider field, and we trust that we may find opportunity of taking full advantage of this new freedom.

While we have thus given what is, I think, the greatest privilege that can be extended to sister nations, namely, free entry, I want once again gratefully to acknowledge, as I have done on previous occasions, the help that our country has received from the preferences voluntarily given by the Dominions, and in doing so I desire to express our warm appreciation of what has been done in that direction. Even now, however, we have by no means exhausted the field of mutual preference. Of the trade carried on by the Empire, 70 per cent is still with foreign countries, only 30 per cent among ourselves. Were conditions to remain as they are, the possibilities of expansion to-day are enormous, but looking to future generations, as population increases, the scope can hardly be measured. Development may come more quickly than we anticipate. When George III ascended the throne, the population of Great Britain was only seven millions. By the end of his reign it had doubled and a hundred years later that doubled population had trebled. In the life of a people 100 years is but a brief span.

Looking at the situation from another aspect, the trend to-day is towards larger units. International trade is so hampered by barriers of all kinds that a strong opinion is developing in favour of groups, not necessarily political in character, but offering to members economic advantages in the mutual opening of markets. No one suggests that complete free trade within the Empire is possible. Considerations of revenue and of past policy stand in the way. But equally there can be no doubt that more constant communications and more complete information about Imperial market requirements would, if properly focussed, present Governments with opportunities of securing trade with other countries of the Empire, and of making commercial arrangements with other groups of nations such as could hardly be reached if each Government acted alone.

What then should be the first aim of this Conference? It should be to clear out the channels of trade among ourselves. For that purpose we need not measure too closely or too exactly the relative value of preferences given and received. If we all approach the problem with a view to seeing how much each can contribute to the common stock without detriment to our own national interests, we shall not need to concern ourselves with the relative advantages obtained by each, since we shall know that an increase in the purchasing power of any member of the Empire must show itself in increased Imperial trade, and the prosperity of each will add to the prosperity of all.

The present universal depression makes the extension and improvement of Imperial trade a matter of urgent importance to all parts of the Empire. The extension and greater activity of Empire trade is the most hopeful means of stimulating demand in the world markets and of restoring a sound level of wholesale commodity prices.

When I speak of the Empire, I am thinking, not only of the Dominions and India, but also of the Colonies, where a keen desire exists for mutual trade with the whole Imperial connection. Colonial territories are situated mainly in tropical latitudes, and they mostly produce food and raw materials, buying manufactures in return. In recent months, the Colonies have considerably extended both in range and area the preferences which have long been established as an important feature of policy, and their desire to play their part in fostering Empire trade is shown by the fact that these preferences are Empire wide.

On our side the United Kingdom have recently granted further extensive preferences to the Colonies, a decision justified on material as well as sentimental grounds, since capacity to buy must depend on ability to sell. The value of Colonial trade to the United Kingdom is shown by the fact that the proportion of United Kingdom exports taken by the Colonial Empire, which amounted to 7 per cent in 1924, has risen in the first quarter of 1932 to 11 per cent. A similar tendency is shown by the figures of the trade between the Colonies and the rest of the Empire. In 1930 the Colonies sold to the United Kingdom goods valued at £39 millions and to the rest of the Empire £20 millions, while during the same year they bought from the United Kingdom £50 millions and from the rest of the Empire £46 millions. It is the desire of the United Kingdom to see trade between the Colonies and the Dominions and India still further increased. We cordially welcome such arrangements as the agreement between Canada and the West Indies which has conferred benefits on both, and we shall hope that our discussions in Ottawa may do much to open up possibilities of mutual trading between the tropical and temperate regions of the Empire.

We have made during the last few months a very intensive examination of the trade of the whole Empire, in the endeavour to find how we can help both ourselves and you, for despite clashes of sectional interest here and there we believe that the prosperity of the United Kingdom and that of all the other parts of the Empire are intimately linked together.

There is one factor, however, which has adversely affected us all, namely, the calamitous fall in the prices of primary commodities and the accompanying fall in production and consumption. Here perhaps I may be allowed to remind you that the countries of the Commonwealth depend upon world prosperity both directly, when they are selling commodities for which a world market is indispensable to them, and also indirectly, when they sell to the United Kingdom, because the purchasing power of the United Kingdom depends upon her ability to sell in a world market, and that in turn depends upon the ability of the world to buy.

In our opinion, this Conference should present us with a valuable opportunity for exchanging views on that subject. We believe that general assent would be given to the view that a recovery in world prices is one of the essential features in the recovery of the world, and it is our policy in the United Kingdom to co-operate in any practical international scheme designed to secure recovery of world prices. There are, however, limits to what even a large group of countries can do to raise their own price level if the trend of prices in the outside world is persistently downwards. Among the factors which should operate towards a restoration of price levels the first place must be assigned to the recovery of confidence by traders and producers. This object can best be achieved by assuring traders of a market for their goods, by the removal or limitations of existing barriers to trade, particularly arbitrary and erratic quota systems and exchange restrictions, by finding a solution of the problem of reparations and war debts, and by lessening the heavy burden of taxation and interest charges. At Lausanne the way was opened to a final settlement of reparations. As regards interest rates, we have just recently made a further step forward by launching our great scheme for converting over £2,000 millions of 5 per cent War Loan to a rate of $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. This scheme has been received with the greatest enthusiasm and the progress already made in the actual process of conversion has exceeded all anticipations. We are confident that the success of the operation besides reducing public charges in the United Kingdom, to an important extent, will lead to a lowering of long-term interest rates to the benefit of industry and commerce and to the advantage of the Governments, not only in the United Kingdom but throughout the Empire.

Reverting now to Empire trade, we hope that as a result of this Conference we may be able, not only to maintain existing preferences, but in addition to find ways of increasing them. There are two ways in which increased preference can be given—either by lowering barriers among ourselves or by raising them against others. The choice between these two must be governed largely by local considerations, but subject to that, it seems to us that we should endeavour to follow the first rather than the second course. For however great our resources, we cannot isolate ourselves from the world. No nation or group of nations, however wealthy and populous, can maintain prosperity in a world where depression and impoverishment reign. Let us therefore aim at the lowering rather than the raising of barriers, even if we cannot fully achieve our purpose now, and let us remember that any action we take here is bound to have its reactions elsewhere.

His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom therefore place before the Conference as its general objective the expansion of Empire trade, brought about as far as possible by the lowering of trade barriers as between the several members of the Empire.

We believe such an objective to be the one best calculated to ensure the permanence and stability of the Empire and to restore and increase the prosperity of all its peoples. We believe, too, that by reviving and strengthening trade within the Empire we shall be serving the interests of civilization as a whole and we shall be taking the most practical means of hastening the economic recovery which is so essential to the world at large.

THE CHAIRMAN: The head of the delegation from the Commonwealth of Australia, the Right Hon. Stanley Bruce, will now address us.

RIGHT HON. MR. BRUCE: Mr. Chairman, I desire to associate myself with what has been said by Mr. Baldwin in appreciation of the address that was delivered to us by His Excellency the Governor General in opening this Conference. I desire also to extend to you, sir, my appreciation of the great speech that you have made. So far as Australia is concerned, we entirely endorse the review that you have given of the great principles of reciprocal trade. All the ideals that you have expressed with respect to that question are ideals that we in Australia have fought for for many years, and we trust that at this Conference we are going to see the consummation of our hope.

We also concur most cordially in what you said, in the resolute attitude you adopted towards the possibility of what we do here being destroyed by unfair action on the part of any outside people.

It is fitting that this great gathering of the British nations of the world should have been called by the Prime Minister of Canada and that it should be held in Ottawa the capital city of the senior Dominion of the Empire.

Nearly forty years have passed since Sir Wilfrid Laurier, on behalf of the Canadian people, took the first step towards economic co-operation among the British peoples.

Some of the greatest names in our public life, for example, Joseph Chamberlain in England—and we are all glad indeed that his distinguished son should be present with us to-day as a member of the Conference—Alfred Deakin in Australia, and many others will always be remembered for their association with a long campaign which, as we all confidently hope, is to be carried to a successful issue by this Conference.

This is an all-British Conference, but its significance and, as I trust, the benefits which will flow from it, are not confined to British people.

The eyes of the world are upon us to-day in hope and expectation.

The depression through which we are passing afflicts every nation and the problems which confront us are due to the same causes that have brought all peoples to the brink of ruin.

Anything we do here to help ourselves will assist in the general solution that must be found if civilization is to be saved.

Our success should serve an even greater purpose. It should serve as an inspiration to action on an international basis which is essential if full prosperity is to be recaptured.

Failure is unthinkable. If we, the British peoples, united by ties of kinship and common interest, cannot in this hour of crisis act together in a spirit of co-operation and good will, what hope is there of international action between nations divided in sympathy and outlook and in many cases the inheritors of centuries of prejudice and hostility?

This Conference has a great task. May we live up to the traditions of our race, remembering that British genius and leadership have ever excelled in the face of adversity.

To succeed we must recognize the causes of the unparalleled depression that has swept over the world; because it is impossible for us to deal with the problems on the economic side of the British Empire unless we recognize that it is world causes that have led to all the difficulties we face to-day.

First comes, I suggest, the calamitous fall in commodity prices. This has led to the undermining of confidence, to the cessation of internal and international investment, and the placing of an intolerable burden upon debtor countries.

If we are to overcome our troubles there must be an increase of commodity prices, a restoration of confidence, and an easing of the burden of debtor countries.

To achieve these things and to bring about a complete solution of the present difficulties, I recognize that international action is necessary.

We cannot wait for complete international agreement. This Conference, representative of the world's greatest group of nations, must aim at the improvement of the present position and thus make a definite contribution towards final solution.

Our primary object is the promotion of intra-Empire trade and the consummation of a closer economic union between the British nations.

This is not the occasion on which I should discuss this question or set out Australia's proposals to assist Empire trade. That will come later. At this stage I confine myself to saying that the Australian delegation, as a result of months of careful preparation, has arrived in Ottawa ready to make its contribution to the discussions which are opening to-day. We know what action we can take further to help Empire trade and particularly British trade in the Australian market, and we are also ready with definite but limited requests for assistance to some of our exports.

By mutual goodwill and co-operation there is much that we can do to help each other, and I am confident that beneficial results will flow from our deliberations.

Our task is a formidable one. We have, however, overcome the more difficult task of determining the constitutional relationships of the different parts of the British Empire. Our achievement in that field has compelled the admiration of the world.

In solving the problem of our economic relationships we should not be confronted by so difficult a task. Our trade is essentially complementary. Our constitutional relationships involved unique problems. They were, however, governed by the fundamental principle of the constitutional freedom of the self-governing parts of the Empire.

In approaching the problems of our economic relationships we will be governed by a similar fundamental principle—that of economic freedom.

With the recognition of this basic fact and the application of practical methods of co-operation, I am confident we will find ways by which we can help ourselves, and in doing so help the rest of the world.

I trust the result of our efforts will be that we shall lay foundations upon which can be built a great structure of reciprocal trade which will progressively promote prosperity throughout the Commonwealth of British Nations.

Our accomplishment, however, is not limited by what we can achieve in the realm of intra-Empire trade. I believe that in monetary policy we can take action which will be a contribution towards the restoration of prices, confidence and stability.

To-day the world is not suffering from any lack of commodities. The production of wealth has, with the aid of science, attained to a point never previously reached and is sufficient to provide a standard of living higher than has previously existed. Yet we have millions of people unemployed, and the general standard of living is declining. This position is a challenge to our civilization. To fail to find a solution is and indictment of statesmanship in the Empire and throughout the world. All peoples are looking for a lead on this problem. Let us here at Ottawa attempt to give it. There is no reason why we cannot within our own group of nations, associated as we assuredly would be with other nations whose monetary policy is closely linked to ours, take the first steps to restore world trade. Such a development would gain the adherence of many other countries and with the strength thus gathered the way would be paved for the solution of what is perhaps the greatest problem that has ever baffled mankind.

There could be no greater contribution towards the world's restoration. In no better way could we build on the foundations laid at Lausanne. That Conference promises to remove some of the deepest causes which are destroying confidence. We all desire to congratulate our colleagues of the United Kingdom Delegation on the success there attained. I desire, in particular, to pay tribute to the invaluable services of the Prime Minister of Great Britain to this cause which lies so near his heart. I also desire to record our appreciation of the work of Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Runciman, who were members of the British Delegation to Lausanne.

I sincerely believe that the accomplishment at Lausanne, followed by what we must achieve here, will be the forerunner of a general international conference which will lead to the restoration of commodity prices, the return of confidence and the lifting of the burden of debtor countries, so that to a depressed and almost desperate world hope may come again.

THE CHAIRMAN: The Chairman of the delegation from the Dominion of New Zealand, Right Hon. J. G. Coates, will now address us.

RIGHT HON. MR. COATES: Mr. Chairman, I desire to thank you and to thank also the leaders of the British delegation and of the Australian delegation for their contributions to this Conference. Sir, I am sure that the sentiments to which they have given utterance will be endorsed by all succeeding delegations.

I desire to thank you, sir—I desire to thank the people of Canada for their cordial and generous hospitality since our arrival in this Dominion. We arrived on the West coast and travelled across this wonderful continent. Wherever we stayed, whether the town was large or small, the generosity of the people and their great cordiality were of a nature that encouraged us to go forward.

New Zealand looks upon this Conference as an event of singular importance. The world-wide depression has borne home to us the inadequacy of our own unaided and individual efforts to cope with our economic difficulties. Never was there a clearer and more urgent call to co-operation; in the succession of Colonial and Imperial Conferences none has been of such immediate and vital concern. I join with my colleagues who have spoken in acknowledging the deep and almost overwhelming sense of responsibility that we feel in approaching the tasks ahead of us.

A full statement on New Zealand's trade and tariffs was placed before the Imperial Conference of 1930. This showed the great development of the Dominion's natural resources, aided by British capital; the consequent expansion of exports, which are wholly primary products and are sent almost entirely to the United Kingdom; (by value, all except 7 per cent or 8 per cent of our total exports go to that market; some 90 per cent of our dairy exports, and over 99 per cent of our mutton and lamb exports are sold in the United Kingdom). The statement showed also the high value of imports relative to population—we were for a long time the largest per capita importer of the products of the United Kingdom; and, referring more particularly to tariffs, it was shown that our Governments have for the past thirty years extended an increasing measure of preference to British goods and have sought to make that preference effective. There is no occasion for me now to cover again the ground that was covered in our 1930 statement, I am to refer rather to developments of the past two years.

The world-wide depression has struck New Zealand with a severity that has dislocated our economic life. That we will regain and surpass our former prosperity, we are confident; and, as I shall note presently, drastic steps have already been taken towards internal readjustment. But we are not yet on an even keel. The drop in sterling price-levels, cushioned though it has been by the United Kingdom's departure from the gold standard but still of a suddenness without precedent, has left a gap between our selling-prices and costs of production. There is of course nothing peculiar to New Zealand in this position; our difficulties are the difficulties of the rest of the Empire and of the world. The force of the impact upon New Zealand of the collapse in prices can be briefly indicated: the prices realized for our exported farm produce were last year 10 per cent below the 1914 level, while costs of production for our farmers were still 40 per cent above 1914. That is the gap we have to close. To the extent that the general problem is accentuated in New Zealand, this is due to two factors; as a borrowing country, we have debts which we incurred at a time when their real burden was lighter than it is at present price-levels; and the fall in the prices of foodstuffs and raw materials, our staple exports, has been relatively greater than the decline in the price of manufactured goods which are our imports. The disparity has been such that to pay for a given quantity of imports New Zealand in 1931 had to export 60 per cent more goods than were required in 1928.

The volume of New Zealand's exports has continued to increase—though it is clear that a great part of these have returned a net loss to the producers. This loss is due to the fact that the value of the exports has fallen in two years (1929 to 1931) by some 35 per cent, that is from £55,000,000 to £35,000,000. Inevitably, our imports have fallen likewise; they declined in the total from 1929 to 1931 by 50 per cent (from £48,000,000 to £24,000,000) and imports from the United Kingdom declined by 45 per cent (from £22,000,000 to £12,000,000). These figures illustrate how intimately our capacity to purchase in the British market is related to the sale of our products in the British market at payable prices. Our problem at Ottawa is to devise ways and means of restoring and extending that capacity.

The depression has not diminished our preference for British goods. Indeed, the percentage of imports drawn from the United Kingdom has increased in these two years from 46 per cent to 49 per cent—in New Zealand the United Kingdom has thus had a larger share of a smaller market than in normal times. If attention be paid to imports of a type produced in the United Kingdom, the corresponding percentages were 59 per cent in 1929 and 67 per cent in 1931. Let me take one commodity for which we depend on external sources of supply and in which we have made deliberate efforts to assist British industry. I refer to motor vehicles. In the two years of depression, 1929 to 1931, the number imported from non-British countries fell from 12,500 to less than 750, a decline to 6 per cent of the 1929 total, while our imports from the United Kingdom in 1931 were still 60 per cent of their 1929 figure, and over 70 per cent of the 1930 total. In the result, the United Kingdom's share in our market rose from 15 per cent in 1929 to 21 per cent in 1930 and 65 per cent in 1931. I think it may reasonably be claimed that our tariff preferences, combined with other means of furthering the use of British products, have been of material aid in directing trade into Empire channels. This may be illustrated by the following table:—

Let me summarize the extent of New Zealand's tariff preferences:—

Seventy-three per cent of our imports (1930) were subject to preference: that is to say they were either dutiable at a lower rate if of British origin, or they were admitted free of duty if, and only if, they were produced in British countries. The imports that came within this latter group—the Empire free list—amounted to 34 per cent of our total imports. This 34 per cent was additional to the imports admitted free of duty in any case, and altogether 54 per cent of our imports of British origin were wholly exempt from New Zealand customs duties.

The range of goods subject to British preference has been constantly widened by successive revisions of the New Zealand customs tariff. Comparing 1930 with 1920, in ten years the percentage of British imports admitted on preferential terms increased from 47 per cent to 73 per cent.

We have not reached the limit of what we can do: presently I shall indicate generally, and later we shall discuss in detail, the lines of further proposed concessions.

Meanwhile it must be remembered that despite the advantages already mentioned, there has been a severe drop in our trade with British countries. For the time being we have lost our place as the largest per capita consumer of the exports of the United Kingdom: in 1929, we imported from the United Kingdom goods to the value of £14,10.6 per head of our population; in 1931, this figure had fallen to £7.9.0 per head. This loss is symptomatic of our disturbed economic condition and clearly indicates how a change in price-levels destroys the power to purchase and consume.

Closely related to, and indeed inseparable from, the difficulties which I have mentioned are monetary and financial questions. We are glad to note that these are to be considered by the Conference, with a view to action to restore and stabilize the general price-level.

Two years ago, the external debt charges of New Zealand absorbed one-sixth of the value of our exports; this year they are absorbing one-third of the exports. "Owing to the fall in export prices, about 80 per cent more exports must be sent abroad to pay interest on Government and local body debts than were required in 1928." This disparity illustrates the effect of a change in the price level in its bearing upon an indebted country whose income depends on primary products; the debtor and the producer suffer inequitably—and not merely the debtor and the producer, for injury to them means injury also to creditors and to the whole community.

It is in recognition of this fact that New Zealand has proceeded during the present year in dealing with internal readjustment. We have taken careful stock of our position and in the light of the best expert opinion we could summon, we have felt obliged to take action which even a year or two ago we would have been unwilling to contemplate. By legislation we have scaled down fixed charges in the nature of rent and of mortgage and other interest payable within the Dominion; in general a cut of one-fifth has been imposed, with power reserved to the courts to meet special circumstances on the application of the land-owner, mortgagee or other lender. The Government's own expenditure has been cut drastically. Economies have been imposed in three years aggregating £10,300,000 which compare with a Budget expenditure of about £25,000,000; though unemployment expenditure and interest charges have hidden the real reductions in expenditure.

This policy has taken us part of the way along the road of adjustment. Yet it is clear that neither the action which we have already taken, nor indeed any further action of a purely internal character that we could take, is able to restore our prosperity. It is for this reason that New Zealand looks with the most vital concern to our deliberations here at Ottawa. We make no pretence of offering a complete and final plan of rehabilitation. We are anxious to pool our information and our suggestions with those offered by delegates from Great Britain and our sister Dominions. We are anxious to reduce to a minimum the preliminary formalities to this Conference and to get at once to grips with our common problems. But briefly an indication may be given at this stage of the lines of our thinking.

To ensure the satisfactory settlement of our major problems, we recognize that world recovery is necessary; and we are unwilling to suggest remedial action for ourselves which would prejudice general recovery. We recognize, too, that however much we may foster intra-Empire trade, exporters of the United Kingdom and of other parts of the Empire must still look to foreign markets to absorb much of their output. The freeing of trade from restrictions recently imposed by foreign countries is therefore a pressing necessity.

Nevertheless the most urgent task of the moment, and the one with which we are immediately concerned, is the rehabilitation of trade and industry within and amongst our own countries. It is in the faith that by common action we can serve our mutual interests, that we enter upon this Conference. This is, after all, a British Empire conference. Though our special concern is thus with our own countries and we seek within them to reverse present disastrous trends in prices, our objects are in no sense detrimental to general world interests. On the contrary, steps towards recovery in our Empire are also the most effective contribution we can make towards general recovery. We look, then, in the first place to the stimulation of Empire trade.

My first reference to tariffs and preferential arrangements is to extend to His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom the grateful thanks of New Zealand for the concessions granted under the tariff which came into force in March of this year. To an extent that was greatly appreciated, the products of the Empire were exempted from the revenue tariff then imposed: and this, we feel, marks the beginning of a new era in Imperial trade. To the Government and the people of the United Kingdom, we wish to express our gratitude.

For our own part, as I have indicated, tariff preferences already granted by New Zealand extend over the major part of our imports. We are prepared to go further. We will proceed by reducing where possible the rates of duty on British goods, and in certain cases we will increase the rates on foreign goods. This will increase the margin of preference for British goods. Moreover as an earnest of our desire to facilitate commerce generally, we will reduce also the general or non-preferential rates on many other imports upon which we are prepared to reduce the corresponding British rates.

It is our sincere desire that His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom will be able to increase the preferences already granted on Empire products, and to consider the feasibility of extending them to products which are not now included. Apart from the products on which preference has already been given, which is greatly appreciated, New Zealand is interested in meat and meat by-products. I take it that details in applying the principle of reciprocal tariff preferences will be considered in committee as this Conference proceeds. Experience has proved beyond question that tariff preferences are a valuable instrument in stimulating Empire trade. Their influence is however expressed in long-term trends; and it is we think necessary that, in the present emergency, they should be aided by some more direct means.

For this reason we support the proposals that have been made for the judicious application with respect to selected commodities, of the principle of the quota to govern the importation of non-Empire products into Empire markets. In no case do we think the quota, or quantitative restrictions, should apply to products of the Empire; but the end can be best achieved by taking power to restrict the volume of foreign imports. This is an unusual course, but prevailing conditions are so highly abnormal that we are forced to regard it as necessary. With the dislocation of trade, we have all the elements of uneconomic dumping by foreign countries of surpluses at prices regardless of costs of production. At the appropriate time we shall be prepared to discuss the application of the principle of the quota to selected articles of import into New Zealand. New Zealand is concerned at the threatened flooding of the markets on which we rely; and in respect to dairy produce, meat, including pig-products, and fruit, we think that a quota on imports from foreign sources into the United Kingdom is urgently necessary. In offering this opinion, we are aware that the paramount consideration of His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom must be the welfare of their own citizens, both as consumers and as producers. We are convinced that the quota can be applied without injury to their interests; and indeed, that while the interests of the consumer are safeguarded, the Home producer can be materially assisted thereby.

The further discussion of import quotas may presumably be postponed to a later stage of the Conference. For the present, the New Zealand delegation give their full support to the general principle, viewing it as an emergency measure designed to tide us over this abnormal period.

We look upon the quota, or some other effective means of insulating Empire markets from the disastrous influence of unduly low price-levels, as bearing a vital connection with efforts to raise sterling prices. That these must be raised is generally realized. It may be that efforts to raise the price-level should be undertaken on a basis even wider than that offered by this Conference. But this surely does not justify the shirking of action within the competence of Empire countries. It is proverbially easier to find excuses for doing nothing than it is to do something; there might be danger in assuming that the possibility of a world conference may excuse inaction here and now.

As New Zealand sees this matter, an explicit avowal by the British Government of the principles on which they and their monetary advisers have recently acted would revive throughout the world confidence in the future of prices. Britain has already given a lead by bringing clearly into view a period of cheap money. She has given a lead by eliminating fluctuations of a speculative character in the exchange value of sterling. The mere statement that Britain is working, with her unrivalled knowledge and financial machinery for a recovery of wholesale prices would, in our opinion, emphasize and support the improvement already in evidence in important commodity markets.

We offer no opinion, we ask for no decision as to the ultimate objective of British monetary policy. But British statesmen and financiers have shown and are showing a courage that shines out brightly in a distracted world. All we ask is an assurance of this Conference that the objects of British monetary policy are to provide a sound basis for the continuance of trade and for the fulfilment of contracts.

The burden of inter-governmental and other debts, particularly those in the nature of war debts, is a problem of real difficulty and one which, we take it, may appropriately be discussed at this Conference as well as at a wider one. We are gratified to note the extent to which interest rates are being reduced in the London money-market, and we hope that the Dominions will benefit as loans domiciled in London fall due for repayment or conversion. That is promising, but we are glad that the presence of the Right Hon. the Chancellor of the Exchequer of Great Britain enables us to emphasize the pressing urgency for action with the least possible delay, to raise the price-level. We have spoken of the difficulties that face us. We can make some local adjustments, but it is simply impossible to restore even a reasonable measure of sound conditions in the Dominion unless and until the general price-level in Great Britain is increased, and increased substantially. That is something which cannot be left to take care of itself.

Our special appeal to the Chancellor of the Exchequer—if we may direct our remarks to him through you, Mr. Chairman—is that he accept the view that the price level must be raised, as the very essential of increased intra-Imperial trade.

During the past year or two farmers and exporters have obtained some help through the exchange rate. It is not advisable to rely wholly on variations in the exchange rate to bring about adjustment. What we all need urgently is such a level of sterling prices as will help to close the gap between selling prices and costs of production. This will enable the trading nations to continue settling their debts and advancing their common interests through their accustomed medium and market, London.

Mr. Chairman, I desire to close this preliminary statement on the note on which I began. This Conference has caught the attention and quickened the hope of our people in New Zealand. They are bearing the burdens of the depression in a magnificent spirit; they realize that their local problems are part and parcel of the greater problems with which we are all faced; and they look to this Conference—as I am sure the people in all our countries look to their representatives—for a positive and courageous lead. We dare not disappoint the expectations which have been raised. For my own part, I cannot help thinking of our deliberations here in relation to the thousands of our citizens who are workless through no fault of their own, and to our farmers who are carrying on in the face of difficulties which only those who are in touch with them can appreciate.

We are embarking upon a great adventure in Imperial co-operation and reciprocity. It is instinctive in our people that, in adversity, we should seek not merely our own self-preservation but also the preservation and advancement of other members of the family of British nations. Approaching our problems in this spirit we will overcome them as certainly as our Empire has triumphed over even greater difficulties in the past.

May I conclude, Mr. Chairman, by endorsing the sentiment expressed in one of your journals this morning in its reference to our deliberations: "The uppermost thought is but of humble prayer that God will guide with wisdom all who are of the Conference, that His grace will give it light to see and courage to achieve for so much of mankind."

THE CHAIRMAN: The head of the delegation from the Union of South Africa, the Hon. N. C. Havenga, will now address us.

HON. MR. HAVENGA: Mr. Prime Minister, I also desire on behalf of myself and my colleagues here to express my thanks for the welcome which has been accorded us and for the courtesy and hospitality extended to us. A few of us here were also present when nearly two years ago you proposed the adjournment of the Economic Section of the last Conference in London to meet in Ottawa, when you assured us in advance of the warm welcome of the Canadian people.

I note that the vicissitudes of political fortune, while responsible for the absence of a number who were associated with us on that occasion, have brought together in this room other old friends of a former historic Conference, already referred to by Right Hon. M. Baldwin, as well as other colleagues whom we are glad to meet.

We reassemble here this morning in a spirit of free association and with a sincere desire to co-operate in order to promote the happiness and prosperity of our respective peoples.

We have listened with great interest to the contributions which have come from the leaders of the various delegations in explaining their views upon the task which lies ahead.

I take this early opportunity of repeating what the South African delegates affirmed in 1930, that in general the Union approves of the extension of trade relations amongst us by agreements embodying reciprocal tariff benefits. Such a policy brings in its train many problems, some of which appear on the agenda paper as items for discussion, but the ultimate success of the Conference will be measured not by resolutions or even by bilateral agreements, but by its effect on international trade.

South Africa does not subscribe to the theory of a self-contained and isolated British Empire. None of its members—least of all the United Kingdom—can exist by trade within the Commonwealth alone. If our industries are to survive, tariff walls are inevitable, but it is our duty to-day to see how far they can be lowered or where preferential entries can be made through those walls, in order that trade now hampered thereby may recover some freedom of movement.

South Africa is in the unique position of being the only Dominion with which the United Kingdom has a favourable trade balance. For many years past the Union has purchased from the United Kingdom twice as much in value as she has sold to her. Moreover, to-day the Union stands fourth in the list of Great Britain's customers amongst all the countries of the world.

Bearing in mind that the primary object of tariff preferences is the promotion of trade, it will be realized that South Africa is in a particularly difficult position when asked to decide in what direction we can still further increase our imports from the United Kingdom.

Averaged over the last six years we have granted preferential rates on nine million pounds worth of goods per annum from the United Kingdom, mostly textiles, machinery and iron and steel manufactures. These I understand are the particular industries requiring assistance. The possibilities of giving new or additional preferences have been examined, and I must frankly state that where these are sought in order to secure a diversion of trade, consideration will have to be given to their effects on foreign countries which now buy our products freely and whose markets we must retain for the surplus that the Commonwealth is unable to absorb.

To Canada we extend preferences on imports totalling over a million pounds per annum, principally on wheat, newsprint and rubber tires. Negotiations for a trade agreement have been proceeding for some months past, and it is hoped that these negotiations will be brought to a satisfactory conclusion.

Unfortunately the Customs agreement which existed for some years between Australia and the Union has been terminated, but that with New Zealand is still in force although trade between us is necessarily small, owing to the similarity of our products.

This is not a suitable occasion for discussing the relationship of inter-Commonwealth preferences and commercial treaties with foreign countries, but I can assure the Conference that the hands of the Union Delegates are not fettered in this connection.

I turn now to the position of Dominion secondary industries in relation to tariff preferences. It is not only sound policy but inevitable that the Dominions should broaden the basis of their prosperity and increase the stability of their economic structure by the development of industries utilizing their raw materials or essential to their national welfare.

Reverting to the important matter of expansion of inter-Commonwealth trade, I wish to refer particularly to our agricultural exports and in doing so to point to the very great development which has taken place in Union agriculture during the past fifteen to twenty years. Instead of being an importer of certain agricultural products—which it was in the past—the Union is now in the position of producing more than it can consume and in the case of certain products it has an enormous surplus which it must endeavour to dispose of on the overseas markets. It is realized that most or all of the Dominions are in the same position and that consequently the marketing of agricultural products will provide one of the most important points for discussion at this Conference.

On the subject of currencies and monetary standards, that have been referred to by previous speakers, there are certain propositions which we consider to be of essential importance. First, all the good work which we hope to do in building up satisfactory trade relations tacitly assumed the existence of a reasonably stable measure of value. International commerce is carried on on small margins of profit. If, therefore, the proceeds of a transaction may be dissipated by a change in the rate of exchange before the due date of payment, commerce becomes speculation, and this tends further to restrict the volume of transactions an evil which we all deplore. Instability of foreign exchange is therefore not necessarily an evil of lesser magnitude than instability of prices; it may in fact sap the roots of international commerce.

Secondly, an Empire currency based on one common unit of value, such as has been advocated, will, in our opinion, involve so much unfruitful adjustment in every member of the Commonwealth, except the member whose unit happens to be chosen as the common unit, that this subject lies outside the sphere of practical measures.

We come therefore to the question what this Conference, by fostering such unity of objectives as may be found possible, can contribute to the solution of this question. We admit fully the drawbacks of a measure of value, based on one commodity. Unfortunately many countries have found it impossible to maintain even this imperfect measure, and have had to be satisfied with something less accurate. What the world requires is a measure of value more stable than gold, not a measure of value less stable than gold. While improvements in the functioning of the gold standard may be possible, we are of opinion that the settlement of balances of international indebtedness will be most easily effected by some universally acceptable commodity. Gold has established its pre-eminence for this purpose. We are, however, not of opinion that any improvements in the measure of value such as will be universally acceptable are likely to be brought about in a sufficiently short time to be of much assistance for the immediate and practical measures which it is hoped to take at this Conference. We consider, therefore that the restoration of the gold standard at such parities as various states may find possible, and after such adjustments of their economic life as they find necessary, will be a forward step in the direction of world economic progress. We consider that the broader questions whether a better standard of value can be invented, together with the allied questions of the raising and stabilizing of the world level of prices, and the desirability or otherwise of international devaluation to encompass this end, are questions not for this Conference, but for the world Monetary Conference which is to be held later in this year.

The interest taken in this Conference, not only by the Nations which form the British Commonwealth, but by the world at large, shows what importance is attached to our deliberations.

During the last two years, the economic position of the world has become steadily worse. To-day we have to face the position that the very foundations of our economic system are in danger, and unless the world can find some way out of the impasse in which disregard of our economic limitations has landed us, we cannot hope to maintain the high level of civilization, which we had come to regard as our inalienable heritage.

The application of the economic discoveries of our age in ever-widening circles has made essential to the economic life of each individual the maintenance at a very high speed of a system of circulation of commodities and services. The whole world has become similar to one of those old-time outposts of civilization, which were dependent for their food supplies on the timely arrival of the provision ship. Only the position has become more complex. If one important economic group in that long chain of inter-communication, which links our economic system from country to country, from town to town, from industry to industry,—if one such group is disorganized the disorganization spreads slowly and insidiously to all other groups. Dislocation begets dislocation, unemployment begets unemployment, loss of confidence begets loss of confidence.

And yet if all the world were once more to recover its faith in these economic institutions, which have in the past brought to the cottage of the poor man material comforts which mediaeval emperors did not know, depression would lift, unemployment would diminish, our ships and wharves and railroads would once more throb with activity at the behest of commerce and cheerfulness would succeed gloom.

We hope that this Conference will produce material adjustment in our trade relations, which will benefit all concerned. This Conference can, by aiding the world to recapture confidence in its economic system, contribute largely to universal revival. Lausanne has initiated the process; let Ottawa carry it through the next stage.

THE CHAIRMAN: We will now hear from the head of the delegation from the Irish Free State, Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly, Vice-President of the Executive Council.

MR. O'KELLY: I wish to begin my statement by thanking most sincerely—on behalf of my Government and the members of our delegation—the Prime Minister, Mr. Bennett, and his colleagues for the very cordial reception which they have extended to us.

It is a source of very great pleasure indeed to us to find ourselves in this glorious country of Canada, to admire its beauties and to share in the pride of its great achievements. We are proud of the place which Canada has won for herself amongst the nations of the world. We are particularly proud of the part which Irishmen have taken in the building up of this nation, and I think Canadians will not refuse us the right to regard Ireland as one of the great motherlands from which their race has sprung. We wish them from our hearts every happiness and prosperity, and we most earnestly hope that the economic crisis which has come upon Canada as upon all other countries will be of short duration and that it will not mark any real slackening in the march towards an ever greater and ever more prosperous nation.

This Conference comes at a time in the world's history when radical changes in the whole fabric of inter-State economic and financial relationships seem to be a necessary preliminary to further progress, if indeed they are not absolutely essential to prevent a breakdown in our present civilization. The Government of the Irish Free State are fully conscious of the extreme gravity of the situation. We realize that a foremost part in finding adequate solutions for the crisis can be taken at this Conference, the success of which is of vital import to all nations. We enter into the discussions of the Conference in a spirit of friendly co-operation, and with the intention of making general trade agreements or particular agreements where such would be to the mutual advantage of the parties.

Special difficulties have recently arisen which affect about 85 per cent of our external trade and which may involve substantial changes in the form and direction of that trade as well as in the internal economic structure of our country. Apart from these difficulties, our economic position is in many respects unlike that of the other States here represented. Our economic development has hardly begun. We are still, and shall be for some considerable time to come, engaged in the task of building up the elements of an economic life suitable to the conditions of our people. It is, therefore, more difficult for us to see the lines along which our contribution to the common endeavour must proceed.

Our aim is the aim of all organized States, namely, to provide such economic conditions in our country as will allow the greatest possible number of our people to live there in peace and comfort. We seek to put an end to the anomaly of one-sided development which has caused a country relatively rich in natural resources to be the one country in Europe whose population has steadily decreased for almost a century. Like every other Government represented at this Conference, we seek, first of all, the interests of our own people, and any acceptance of general principles of economic relationship must be governed by the degree to which they serve that end. We believe that the freest possible development of each State of the Commonwealth is the best guarantee of mutual co-operation and friendship, and that no inter-State relationship can have a permanent character which is not established on a completely free basis or which leaves either party in a position of inferiority.

We most earnestly hope that the Conference will be a success whether or not the people of the Irish Free State can share in the ultimate benefits to the same full extent as the peoples of the other nations whose representatives are gathered here. We are convinced that the atmosphere of goodwill created by the Canadian Government and people will be of inestimable value in bringing these discussions to a successful issue.

THE CHAIRMAN: The Hon. L. E. Emerson, K.C., Minister of Justice from the newest Dominion and the oldest colony, Newfoundland, will now address us.

HON. MR. EMERSON: Mr. Chairman, I join first of all with the previous speakers in thanking His Excellency, the Governor General for the gracious speech of welcome with which he opened this Conference, and secondly, sir, I join with those speakers in thanking you for the reception which you have accorded us. The arrangements which have been made for the convenience of our work and comfort are marked evidence of the serious thought which has been given to them by yourself, your colleagues, and those of your staffs who have given such unremitting service in the interest of those who attend here to-day.

I join with previous speakers in congratulating you on your election as presiding officer of this most important Conference, the first of its kind held under, if I may so call it, the new constitutional "dispensation." I feel sure that it must be a source of pride to you to preside over, and to the people of Canada to have this country as the seat of, this unique assembly.

I regret very much the absence at our opening meeting of Mr. Alderdice, the Prime Minister of Newfoundland, and I assure you on his behalf, that he regrets most sincerely, as I do, that he is not here to join in our deliberations from their very beginning. Within the last few weeks an election has been held in my country, which has resulted in a change of Government. His departure from Newfoundland in time to arrive for the opening of the Conference was impossible.

In dealing with the problems with which the Conference is faced, I have to point out at the very outset that Newfoundland's position is, speaking generally, upon a footing very different from that of her sister Dominions. Her population is small, her resources, although large are only partially developed, and the population is widely scattered over a long and heavily indented coast line. None of these conditions affect to a like extent the relations between themselves and the other nations whose representatives sit at this Conference. We still look to the outside world for capital, for finance and for most of the articles of daily use and consumption.

For example. One of the most important items already referred to by those who have preceded me is that of the Money Standard of the Empire. In Newfoundland all the banking and financial arrangements are made through the four largest chartered banks in Canada. We have no banks of our own. The rates of exchange on London or New York are settled for us in Montreal by conditions of the trade of Canada with these centres, so that in dealing with Imperial Currency, our interest at present is, as it will be for very, very many years to come, bound up with that of Canada. We will follow her decision at this Conference on this question with keen interest.

The main object of this Conference is to increase the trade between every country of the Commonwealth with the other and, in so far as possible, to accomplish this end without decreasing the trade at present done with other countries. The spectre of trade depression with its consequent evil of unemployment, has made us turn our eyes inward. As members of a large and dispersed family we seek in time of distress to help one another. Various specifics have been suggested, Imperial Free Trade, Imperial Preference and so forth, but whatever may be the panacea which will ultimately cure the ills from which we suffer, it is clear that this Conference will consider as its basis variations in our respective tariffs. In all your countries, gentlemen, the tariff is used for the two purposes of protection for your industries, and for the raising of revenue. In Newfoundland the situation is different. Customs and excises receipts are at least seventy-five per cent of our total revenue. The geographical and other characteristics of the country make it impossible to collect any substantial portion of our revenue by direct taxation. A revision downward of our tariff in favour of our Imperial partners, desirable though we may consider it to be, is therefore an object very difficult to accomplish.

Our export trade goes almost exclusively to countries outside the Empire. Our fish, our most valuable industry of all, to the extent of almost two-thirds goes to Southern and Southeastern Europe and to Brazil. Of our newsprint over one-half goes to the United States of America, and of our minerals over two-thirds has of recent years gone to Germany, Holland and Belgium. On the other hand our purchases, as to two-thirds, are made within the Empire.

You will understand from this cursory summary how difficult it is for us to do what we would like to do, namely, to offer general exchange of tariff privileges between you and ourselves.

There is no reason, however, why the balance of our imports should not be purchased within the Empire, and particularly from England and from Canada.

While it might not be possible to revise the tariff downwards, there would seem to be no reason why this balance should not be directed into Commonwealth channels by a restriction upon imports from other countries in exchange for their assistance in solving the problems with which we are faced. I stress this suggestion especially when I feel that its acceptance will not ultimately entail any sacrifice upon the acceptors. In order to explain to those of the Conference who are not familiar with the special conditions to which my comments have been directed, I again will illustrate my point by a couple of instances which Newfoundland will ask the Conference to consider.

In Bell Island there are vast iron ore deposits operated by a company using capital obtained from England and Canada, employing men exclusively from Newfoundland. This company exports a portion of its ore to Canada, where it uses Canadian coal, and Canadian labour in manufacturing steel and the by-products from the ore. Its capital is British, its ore is British, its labour is British; its product is distinctly and completely British, but for years the company has been able to find a market for a very large portion of its production at Bell Island only in Continental Europe. On the other hand the steel manufacturers of Great Britain are and have been for many years using ore obtained from countries outside the Empire. I submit to the Conference that this is a subject calling for its consideration. It is typical of the class of subjects which has called it into existence.

Again in a general way may I refer to the competition with which we in Newfoundland are faced in trading in round and sawn lumber. The present Government has not yet settled any policy as to the development of our vast timber territories in Newfoundland and in the Labrador. If it is decided that the export of unmanufactured timber is to be permitted from Newfoundland or from Labrador, we will be forced to sell to the countries outside of the Empire unless the conditions of import into England are changed.

Finally, by way of explanation of my submissions, Newfoundland has been of recent years the pioneer in the most modern method of chilling salmon and other fresh fish. The competition we have had to face in one of the biggest markets of the world is making it increasingly difficult for our country to sell this product.

Our close connection both historically and geographically have interwoven with England and Canada the problem our Prime Minister and I have to lay before you. This is my excuse for mentioning these two countries alone. Upon all subjects, I have dwelt only very generally. Upon his arrival with his advisers the Prime Minister of Newfoundland will, I am confident, lay before you and before the various committees, proposals in concrete form and he will also take up with you and our committees other less important, but none the less grave issues which face us in our Dominion. I am sure that they will receive at your hands careful consideration and that when we conclude this epochal Conference they will have been settled to our mutual benefit and satisfaction.

THE CHAIRMAN: I will call upon the head of the delegation from India to address the gathering.

SIR ATUL C. CHATTERJEE: May I at the outset express the pleasure and gratification of the Indian Government that at the invitation of your Government an Indian delegation is participating in this historic gathering in your beautiful capital city. We have travelled far to come here but our reward is equally great. Representing as we do one of the older civilizations of the globe, we deem ourselves fortunate thus to be brought into close contact with one of the newest and most progressive nations of the modern world.

We appreciate very greatly the most kindly and cordial welcome that was extended to us by His Excellency the Governor General this morning, and also the very great welcome, sir, that you have extended to us as the Prime Minister of this great country.

Previous speakers, Mr. Prime Minister, have emphasized the momentous importance of this Conference and the weighty issues which await the result of our deliberations. The Indian delegates feel this very strongly, and it will be our constant aim to contribute our share to the solution of the difficult and anxious problems which surround us. I believe I can best serve the purposes which are common to us all if I attempt to explain the point of view from which the Indian delegation approaches them. The success of this Conference depends very much on the extent of our sympathetic appreciation of the circumstances in which the representatives of each part of the Empire speak to-day—circumstances arising in each country from the course of history, and created for each of us by the irresistible pressure of economic forces. I hope I shall not make too heavy a demand on your patience, if I try to explain the position of India.

In doing this may I first of all refer to a circumstance which gives this Conference a special significance for India. This is the first occasion on which the leadership of the Indian delegation to an Imperial Conference has not been filled by the Secretary of State for India, and it marks one more stage in India's advance to complete self-government. The question of trade relations occupies the foremost place in our Agenda. Now in the sphere of Customs Tariffs, India has already achieved autonomy in this sense that, when the Government of India and the Indian Legislature are in agreement the Secretary of State in London stands aside and does not exercise the power of control which is vested in him in our existing constitution. That the leadership of the Indian delegation has fallen to me, and that two of my colleagues have been selected from among the members of the Indian Legislature is an implicit recognition of this fact. The Indian delegation is unique in this respect that it is not composed of Ministers of the Crown, and that the Government it represents, though it does not command a majority in its Legislature, must act in concurrence with that Legislature if in the sphere of tariffs it is to act at all. The special difficulties arising from this peculiar situation will be obvious and need not be explained at length.

I must also refer to the fact that we are at a transition stage in India's constitutional advance and a stage which is approaching its termination. The declarations made by His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom, after they had taken counsel with the representatives of India at the Round Table Conference, envisage the next stage as the establishment of a Federal Constitution for a Greater India, including not only British India, but the Indian States. It is impossible for the Indian Delegation to put this impending change from their thoughts when they approach the problems before the Conference. They have to keep in view not only the India of to-day but also the India of the future, an India which I hope and believe has a large part to play in the British Commonwealth of Nations, bearing its proper share of the common responsibilities and contributing to the welfare of the whole. It must be the aim of those of us who represent India to-day so to perform our task that, while on the one hand India contributes her share in the present task of economic co-operation in the British Commonwealth of Nations—on the other hand the Government of the Greater India to which we look forward in the near future remains free to decide and shape for itself the future policy in accordance with its own conception of its position in the Commonwealth.

Turning now to the economic side of the question, I cannot claim for India that in this region she occupies any unique position or that her difficulties cannot be paralleled elsewhere, though there are features in her situation which deserve to be noticed. Like other parts of the Empire she has been exposed to the full blast of the economic storm, and since the great bulk of her population belongs to the class of primary producers, she, like the Dominions and the Colonial Empire, experienced at once the full effect of the catastrophic fall in prices and all that followed from it. As in many of the Colonies, a very high proportion of her population are directly dependent upon agriculture for their means of subsistence, while the average income, and consequently the purchasing power of the people, judged by western standards, is very low. Like most of the Dominions she has felt that to secure a due balance in her national life, industrial development is necessary and must be steadily pursued. Like most of the Dominions again, though at a much later date, she adopted a policy of protection in order that the growth of industries might be expedited. In all these respects India's circumstances resemble those of one part of the Empire or another. But no Colony and no Dominion contains a population of 350 millions—three-fourths of the population of the Empire as a whole; no other part of the Empire contains such extensive tracts where the density of population produces a pressure upon the soil which is the cause of constant anxiety; nowhere else in the Empire does the recurring menace of famine, brought about by the unequal distribution of the seasonal rains, involve Governmental action on anything approaching the same scale. No Dominion and no Colony has a problem of military defence of the same scale as India.

The outlines of India's fiscal policy are to a large extent determined by the circumstances I have attempted to describe. The scale of Defence expenditure and the limited number of sources to which the Central Government can look for revenue, render the maintenance of the Customs revenue a matter of great importance, while at the same time the low level of purchasing power of the great mass of the population makes it desirable to keep the general level of duties within moderate limits. In these circumstances the effects on the Customs Revenue of a particular rate of preference requires the closest examination, lest the productiveness of that source of income should be endangered. Again there are commodities which, in the interests of industrial development, of public health, or of educational progress, have been left in India free of duty except in a financial emergency so acute as to over-ride the considerations of policy which would ordinarily be applicable. In such cases there can be little scope for preferential rates of duty. In the third place there are the commodities which are subject to protective duties. The policy adopted by India aims at securing an ordered and balanced development and the avoidance of some of the dangers and difficulties to which protection sometimes leads. The industries selected for protection are only those which are considered to possess natural advantages that would enable them in the long run to dispense with State assistance. In every case the protection duty is only fixed after a careful examination by the Tariff Board at a level which will be adequate for its purpose without imposing an unnecessary burden on the consumer. The Government of India and their delegation feel that a policy of this kind, deliberately adopted and found by experience to work satisfactorily, should not be discarded on the eve of a great constitutional change. It is of great importance to the future of India that the scheme of protection should be handed over to the new Government in full working order and with its vital principles unimpaired. Theoretically, it might seem that preferences in the case of protective duties would be excluded altogether, but practically the result has been different. One of the most interesting things about the Indian system of protection is that it has led directly to what has been in effect, if not in intention, a preference for Empire goods. In two very important cases, iron and steel and cotton piece goods, it has been found that the imposition of a lower rate of duty on goods made in the United Kingdom is entirely consistent with India's interests. My colleagues and I hope that an examination on similar lines of other protected industries may lead to a solution which will be in the interests of both India and of other parts of the Commonwealth.

One other aspect of India's economic position may be briefly noticed in passing. Like other parts of the Empire, she can neither meet her international obligations nor purchase her requirements of manufactured goods unless she can find a market for her raw produce. Her exportable surplus of certain commodities may, however, exceed—may even very greatly exceed—the Empire's present capacity to absorb them. India has to find markets outside the Empire for the great bulk of the exportable surplus of her products, although in normal years she purchases a greater proportion of her requirements from within the Empire than from without. These are facts which those responsible for India's welfare have constantly to bear in mind. The development of her foreign trade generally is one of her primary interests. But it is not in the mind of any of us here, I am sure, that trade would be confined to Empire channels, and it is the hope of the Indian delegation that this Conference may prove to be an important step towards greater freedom of trade throughout the world.

There is one item in the agenda the importance of which cannot be stressed too strongly. I mean the inter-relationship of monetary standards of the Empire and the desirability and feasibility of restoring and stabilizing the general level of prices and achieving exchange stability. For here we come to factors which affect the very foundations on which any structure of fiscal preferences has to rest. The benefits to production and trade of a preferential system may easily be swept away unless it is supported by a monetary and credit policy which assures a reasonable measure of stability of general wholesale prices. Above all things it is essential that the level of prices should be such as to re-establish equilibrium with costs and the burden of all fixed and semi-fixed money obligations. The precipitous fall in the level of wholesale prices in the last three years has created disequilibria of a character and an intensity which have had, and continue to have, the most unfortunate and dangerous consequences on the economic life and on the public and private finances of all countries, but particularly of countries, like India, which are mainly engaged in the production of primary commodities.

Determined measures of readjustment are urgently necessary, and I desire to express the earnest hope that the Conference may be able to reach agreement on a plan which will bring about this desired end. Although for the full attainment of this end world-wide co-operation will be necessary, much can be accomplished at Ottawa as a preliminary to international discussion. Moreover if a lead is given by us here it will have a potent influence towards restoring general confidence. Let me emphasize that India regards the monetary problem as one of vital and urgent importance.

I have only one word to say in conclusion. In speaking on preferential tariffs I have dealt so fully, Mr. Prime Minister, with our special difficulties that I may have seemed to attach more weight to them than to the common aim and purpose which brings us together. I hope this is not the impression I have produced. The Indian delegation has come to Ottawa in the hope and the belief that between the various parts of the Empire agreements can be reached which will be mutually advantageous to the countries concerned and harmful to none. It is in this spirit that they will strive to play their part in the work of the Conference.

THE CHAIRMAN: The country of Southern Rhodesia has not yet attained the status of a Dominion, but it has established responsible Government, and by common consent the members of its delegation are present as observers, and we will now be addressed by the Prime Minister, the Hon. Mr. Moffat.

HON. MR. MOFFAT: Sir, I wish first, on behalf of myself and the other members of the Southern Rhodesia delegation, to associate myself with the thanks and appreciation expressed by the other members for the kind welcome extended to us by His Excellency the Governor General on behalf of the Government of Canada, and for the lavish hospitality which we are receiving.

I speak for the youngest of the self-governing communities of the British Empire.

First, I wish to thank the Government of Canada for having extended to Southern Rhodesia an invitation to attend the Imperial Economic Conference, 1932, though the Colony has not yet attained to the position of a Dominion. I also thank the other Dominions for having approved of and agreed to the invitation; and the Right Hon. the Secretary of State for the Dominions for his good offices.

For over thirty years it has been the policy of Southern Rhodesia to grant tariff preferences to the United Kingdom and to Dominions which reciprocate. This policy was laid down by Cecil Rhodes, the founder of Rhodesia, in 1898. It is therefore, in whole-hearted support of the extension of the policy of preferences, and of any other suitable methods which will assist in increasing trade within the Empire, that the representatives of Southern Rhodesia have come to this Conference.

The Colony is a producer of primary products, both mineral and agricultural, and stable markets for these are necessary to its progress. We have large areas of empty lands suitable for a variety of crops needed by the Mother Country, and to some extent by the Dominions and Crown Colonies. Southern Rhodesia also produces gold and base metals. Markets for these products will enable us to take settlers and to fill up our empty lands and thus to absorb some of the surplus population of the United Kingdom which must look overseas for its future.

The advantages are obvious on both sides. Something will have to be given up in return for advantages gained, and there must, therefore, be a spirit of give and take.

The nearer we get to the Conference, the more the difficulties before us can be seen and appreciated. But it is the genius of our people to overcome such difficulties.

I feel confident we shall not fail in our endeavours, and, with the encouragement of trade within the British Empire, and the British Commonwealth of Nations, we shall strengthen existing bonds of sentiment and create new ties of self-interest and of sympathy.

APPENDIX

THE SENATE

Another vacancy was created in the Senate by the death of Honourable Dr. J. W. Daniel, Senator for New Brunswick, bringing the number of vacancies in the Senate to seven.

HOUSE OF COMMONS

Constituency of Yamaska, Que.

At the last General Election, July 28th, 1930, Aimé Boucher (L.), former Member for the Constituency of Yamaska was declared elected by a majority of "one" over his opponent, Mr. Comtois, (C.). His election was contested before the Superior Court of Quebec, claiming certain irregularities. The decision of the Court unseated Mr. Boucher. Later, this decision was appealed before the Appeal Court of Quebec, and the judgment of the Superior Court was sustained. Mr. Boucher then placed in an appeal before the Supreme Court of Canada, and judgment was rendered unseating Mr. Boucher for causes of irregularities at the time of the election. The seat has not yet been declared vacant, and will not be so until the judgment of the Supreme Court is placed in the hands of the Speaker of the House of Commons at the re-opening of the Session, January 30th, 1933.

LEGISLATURE OF ALBERTA

A by-election for the constituency of Calgary, necessitated by the resignation of Dr. C. W. McGill (C.), when appointed Deputy Minister of Indian Affairs, is to be held on January 19th. Nominations were held on January 9th with six Candidates entering the contest. The voting will take place on January 19th. It is noted that in the political affiliations of the six candidates none appear designated as "Liberal" or "Conservative", these two parties having decided not to contest the constituency at this by-election.

DOMINION PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE

At the time of going to press, delegates are arriving in Ottawa for the Dominion Provincial Conference, the first session of which will be held on January 17th. The Prime Minister of each Province, as well as other Members of their Governments are expected to attend these very important discussions. The last Dominion Provincial Conference was held in 1927.
